'HOLY WAR' LOOMS IN NEAR EAST

Oppose Ship Transfer as 'Act of War'

SENATORS HIT PLAN TO GIVE BRITAIN CRAFT

Protest Part of Proposal To Take Over Foreign Vessels In American Ports.

AIRCRAFT ALSO POOLED

Score of Private Transport Planes Placed at Service of British Empire.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — An unexpectedly strong move developed in the senate today for curbing the proposed authority of the president to turn over seized shipping to Great Britain.

Projected as an integral part of legislation which would permit the president to requisition and pay for about 80 foreign flag vessels lying idle in United States ports, this provision was said to have aroused a storm of protest within the senate commerce committee.

Some committee members asserted that the transfer of one belligerent's ships to another belligerent could only be regarded as "an act of war."

Chairman Emory S. Land of the maritime commission disagreed with this view, although Senators Clark (D., Mo.), Johnson (R., Cal.) and others took the stand that such a transfer would be a warlike gesture.

Despite reported administration pressure to keep the provision in the bill, Chairman Bailey (D., N. C.) said he would not be surprised if a majority voted to restrict to American use the German and Italian ships recently taken into "protective custody" by the coast guard. Some other committee members disagreed, however, with Bailey's appraisal.

Chairman George (D., Ga.) of the senate foreign relations committee, who introduced the ship requisition legislation, predicted that some compromise would be worked out under which the Axis vessels could be used in American coastal trade.

As the measure was reported by

Beaverbrook Becomes Britain's 'Arms Czar'

Appointment Reply To Criticism Over War Conduct

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Prime Minister Winston Churchill answered critics of his administration today by shaking up his cabinet and naming dynamic Lord Beaverbrook to the newly-created post of minister of state with the apparent intention of making him virtual dictator of Britian's wartime industries.

In line with this sweeping move, Churchill merged the ministers of shipping and transport and entrusted the important new portfolio of wartime communications to a virtual unknown—57-year-old Frederick Thomas Leathers, who simultaneously was made a baron.

J. T. C. Moore-Brabaizon, former minister of transport, was named to succeed Beaverbrook as minister of aircraft production. Ronald H. Cross, relieved of the post of minister of shipping, was appointed high commissioner to Australia.

These changes, generally commended by the press—which has been insisting that "new men obviously have become necessary for more efficient conduct of the war"—came as Churhill prepared to face parliament next week in a debate on British reverses in Greece and North Africa.

LORD BEAVERBROOK

They apparently were designed to answer two outstanding objects of criticism—delay in production of vital war materials and lack of co-ordination between land and sea communications.

DOG POISONERS STILL ACTIVE, PROBE PUSHED

Authorities Learn of New Canine Deaths; Police Join Warden In Search.

WARNS OF PENALTY

Miller Points To Cruelty, Threatens Prosecution of Guilty Persons.

Mansfield police and County Dog Warden William Miller redoubled their efforts today to find a dog poisoner as another in a series of poisonings was reported. Most of the cases have occurred in the southwest part of the city and in the Woodland area.

Frank M. Pilo, 150 Sturges avenue, reported to police last night that his dog died almost instantly yesterday after being poisoned. He also said that he had lost another dog last year in a similar wave of dog poisonings.

Last week, reports of the deaths of six or seven dogs in the Woodland area were received. Residents reported that some of the dogs dropped dead while others refused to eat and died from starvation.

Miller said that he believed strychnine was being used to kill the dogs and that he was conducting a thorough investigation. Police Chief Meade K. Bates announced today that the cases had been reported to Miller but that the department was lending cooperation in the investigation.

A resident near Blymyer avenue reported the death of a dog last week and said that it was believed that someone was putting poisoned meat or food within the reach of the dogs.

Miller warned that there was a "stiff penalty" for persons using poison to destroy dogs. He said that the use of strychnine causes the animals to suffer intense agony before death.

Police reported that several dog owners are moving their pets to homes in the country to protect them from the danger of death. They said that such poisonings broke out each year and were difficult to trace.

Uncle Sam Patrols the Seas

Revelation by Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, that U. S. neutrality patrols are operating as far as 2,000 miles offshore means U. S. warships are on lookout for Nazi raiders as far out as the east coast of Greenland and within a short distance of the Azores. Even further extension of naval activities was hinted in a statement by President Roosevelt that the U. S. Navy could enter the combat areas surrounding the British Isles "in defense of the American Hemisphere."

Report Iraq Forces March Upon British

Berlain Claims Natives Advancing In Rich Oil Territory as New Threat In Britain's Empire Struggle; Axis Attacked at Tobruk.

BULLETIN

NEW YORK—(INS)—Iraq artillery began shelling the Habbaniyah airport, occupied by the Royal Air Force, at dawn today. according to a BBC broadcast picked up in New York by CBS. "British forces were compelled to take counter-action," the broadcast said.

(By Associated Press)

A new threat in Britain's life-or-death struggle for her empire developed today in the rich oil kingdom of Iraq, south of Turkey, and the Berlin radio intimated broadly that the crisis might precipitate a "holy war" in the Near East.

The Syrian radio reported that Iraq native forces were advancing on British air bases and that reserves were being called up.

Simultaneously, the Berlin radio broadcast a report that Iraq had mobilized "all classes of special units and the 1916 class of the regular army."

Berlin asserted that Iraq's "foreign-exploited" Mosul oil fields were now "under the control of special troops of the Iraq armed forces."

Britain has invested more than a billion dollars in developing the country and its fabulous oil fields, and it was Kaiser Wilhelm's dream of a Baghdad-Berlin railroad to tap the wells that helped precipitate the 1914-18 World war.

BRITISH GIRD FOR NEW FIGHT

Empire Troops Ready for Next Battle After 'Terrible Retreat' in Greece.

AND HENRY T. GORRELL

(UP Press Staff Correspondent)

With the British empire troops evacuated from Greece, Cairo, back in Egypt after a terrible 200-mile retreat through Greece and a 600-mile voyage across the sea under the attack of German dive bombing planes, the undaunted British Imperial Expeditionary force began today to reorganize for another fight.

Its men had fought the massed armored forces of the Germans for days, they had fired until their ammunition gave out at robot-like waves of massed German infantrymen, who marched endlessly over the bodies of their own dead, until the attackers were exhausted.

They had fought parachutists who had descended by thousands in an attempt to cut off their final retreat.

They had embarked on the beaches of the Peloponnesus, had made the voyage across the eastern Mediterranean crowded into overloaded evacuation ships, singing below decks as the gun crews above fought a final furious—and successful fight with the Stuka bombers.

Hundreds of soldiers, crowded on the decks because there was no room below, cheered as the gunners of the three anti-aircraft cruisers nearest us blasted at German and Italian planes.

Just before we reached port, a

The new British peril, briskly fanned by Nazi propaganda, arose from the landing of British troops in Iraq to protect the east flank of the Suez canal.

Conceivably, the Near East's millions of Moslems and Arabs might sweep into action at the call of a "jirad," or holy war.

The Germans also reported diplomatic activity in neighboring Iran, formerly known as Persia.

In the 23-day-old siege of Tobruk, on the Libyan coast of North Africa, British middle east headquarters announced that the British garrison counter-attacked and smashed 11 Axis tanks, inflicting heavy casualties.

Big guns of the British fleet, lying off Tobruk harbor, were reported helping the garrison by raining shells into Axis troop concentrations.

British sources in Cairo said the loss of equipment in Greece was being offset by the arrival of great

OPM Strengthens Control on Nickel-Bearing Steel.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Effecting nearly every heavy industry, the OPM today tightened its control over nickel-bearing steel, used in making crank shafts and bearings for nearly all types of motors for airplane trucks and tanks in the national defense program.

Director of Priorities E. R. Stettinius, jr., ordered all purchases of nickel-bearing steel to make a report showing their inventories as of April 30. Unless such reports, are made, Stettinius warned, all deliveries will be withheld after May 15. This forecast a rigid rationing of the vital national defense materials.

The action of Stettinius followed his order yesterday placing sixteen vital national defense metals under a new and drastic system of inventory control.

Warns Ceiling Will Be Put on Retail Prices

Henderson Declares Unjustifiable Increase In Cost of Living Would Bring Drastic Action.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Price Control Administrator Leon Henderson said today that a ceiling would be placed on retail prices of consumer goods, if necessary, to prevent unjustified increases in the cost of living.

He conceded that regulation of prices in the consumer field would be a difficult administrative problem but told a national defense conference on food and clothing producers:

"We are not afraid of the task. . . . It can be done any time it is more important to regulate retail prices than to suffer the consequences."

He said unwarranted advances in living costs "feed the demand for wage increases and force prices up further."

Other government officials warned the producers of food and clothing against unwarranted price increases and criticized some of them for maintaining stable prices at the expense of quality.

Henderson told the delegates that as businessmen they "should be interested in maintenance of price stability. . . . For nothing

SUBWAY OPEN

Water Line Job Completed, Traffic Snarl Ends.

The Park Avenue east subway was thrown open to full traffic today after having been closed for the last three days.

City street workers reopened the subway this morning following completion of work in laying a new 12-inch water line under the street.

Traffic, proceeding over only one-lane, was backed up for three blocks at all three entrances to the subway from Tuesday through Thursday.

Completed in three days with the use of city workers, the project was originally estimated to take about a week with WPA labor. Mayor William J. Locke ordered that one-lane traffic be maintained during the work and that city workers be substituted for WPA men to speed the project.

GUARD SUCCUMBS

NEW LEXINGTON — (UP) — Funeral services will be held Sunday for Thomas H. Lewis, 83, one-time personal aid to Senator Mark Hanna and a member of the honor guard at the bier of President William McKinley. Lewis died yesterday at his home in Moxahala.

UNEMPLOYMENT TAKES BIG DROP

887,000 Get Jobs During 30-Day Period Report Indicates.

NEW YORK—(INS)—Unemployment in the United States took a 12.6 per cent drop in March, the national industrial conference board reported today.

A total of 887,000 workers left the ranks of the jobless during the 30-day period, reducing the total number of unemployed in America to 6,142,000.

With 934,000 more persons at work in March, total employment climbed to 49,373,000, the highest point since Sept., 1929, when 49,775,000 persons had jobs.

Ex-King of Rumania Aboard Ship Bound For U. S.

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Private advices received by the United Press said that former King Carol of Rumania today boarded the American Export liner, Excambion, at Lisbon bound for New York.

Carol is en route to Chili where he will take up residence and is coming to New York only in transit to South America.

According to United Press advices, the ex-king was accompanied by two friends when he boarded the Excambion. Presumably they were his companion, Mme. Magda Lupescu, and his former court chamberlain, Ernest Urdreanu.

Carol has been given permission by Chilean authorities to establish residence at Valparaiso.

DIES SAVING LIFE OF MATE

Woman Killed As She Goes To Rescue of Husband.

LANCASTER—(INS)—Mrs. William MacCandlish, 35-year-old farm wife, gave her life to save that of her husband.

The husband told authorities he had finished working in his fields, about six miles east of Lancaster, and was disconnecting the disc harrow when his tractor started suddenly, catching him in the machinery and dragging him along the ground.

His wife rushed to his aid and attempted to climb the side of the machine to stop it, but was thrown to the ground and crushed under the wheel. She died of a punctured lung. The tractor plunged up an embankment and stopped without seriously injuring the husband.

U. S. FLIERS CROSS ATLANTIC

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The war department announced today that some of its junior air corps officers are crossing the Atlantic on British planes, as part of a program to learn the lessons of current European warfare.

ORDERS 24-HOUR DAY PRODUCTION

FDR Puts Defense Operations on 7-Day Week, Calls For Canvass of Nation.

WASHINGTON — President Roosevelt, asserting that America is confronted by a "critical situation," ordered the office of production management today to put operations of defense machines and machine tools on a 24-hour day, 7-day week.

In a letter to William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, directors of OPM, Mr. Roosevelt requested a triple program:

1. Pool every useful or potentially useful machine tool and machine in the country for use in the defense program.

2. Utilize these machines and tools where they are, or transport them to a point where they can be useful.

3. Re-canvass the entire nation, including the armed forces, for skilled workers to operate the machines on an all-out basis.

Mr. Roosevelt expressed confidence that sufficient workers could be found to man the machines for continuous operation without individual men working longer hours to the detriment of federal hour standards.

"The ever increasing demands for munitions, planes and ships caused by the critical situation which confronts our nation requires that they be produced in even larger quantities and ahead of the schedules assigned to them," Mr. Roosevelt wrote Knudsen and Hillman.

"Our problem is to see to it that there is no idle critical machine in the United States. The goal should be to work these machines 24 hours a day and 7 days a week, relieving the machines only for such time as is required for overhauling and repair.

GETS REPRIEVE

Youngstown Murderer Granted 10-Day Stay of Execution.

YOUNGSTOWN — (U.P.) — Emil Rosoviz, who had been scheduled to die tonight in the Ohio penitentiary electric chair for murder, has been granted a 10-day stay of execution by the Mahoning county appellate court. The stay was given to permit his attorneys to appeal to the state supreme court.

An appeal to the supreme court will delay the execution date still further.

TURN FOR WORSE

Kreisler Still Unconscious From Accident Injuries.

NEW YORK—(INS)—The condition of Fritz Kreisler, 66-year-old internationally famous violinist, who suffered a fractured skull when hit by a truck in midtown Manhattan last Saturday noon, took a turn for the worse today.

The musician has not regained consciousness since his admittance to the hospital.

Red Cross Here Issues Appeal for 400 More Workers

Appeal went out today from the Richland county chapter of the Red Cross for an additional 400 volunteer workers to meet the production quota in knitted and sewed garments for overseas relief set up by the national chapter for the remaining seven months of 1941.

Basing the amount of additional help that will be needed on the output of the past, Mrs. Gertrude English, executive secretary, said she believed that "1,000 workers monthly could meet the quota." Last month 644 volunteer workers gave 11,000 hours to Red Cross service.

The national chapter estimates

EXPENSES SOAR

Officials Predict Total to Hit 2 Billion a Month.

WASHINGTON —(UP)— American defense production is increasing so swiftly that officials predicted today federal expenditures would reach $2,000,000,000 a month in the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

In comparison, the government spent approximately $1,300,000,000 last month—about $750,000,000 for defense and $550,000,000 for other purposes.

The estimate of spending at the rate of $24,000,000,000 a year was reported authoritatively to have been prepared by Stacy May, statistician of the office of production management, for presentation to the senate committee investigating the defense program. Over the year, this figure is $5,000,000,000 above the estimate made by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau in testifying on tax increase before congressional committees last week, and is $6,500,000,000 larger than the budget President Roosevelt submitted to congress in January.

FACES CHARGE

Miner Pleads Innocent To Charge of Shooting Deputy Sheriff.

IRONTON—(UP)—Ed Addis, 46, pleaded innocent today to a first degree murder charge resulting from the shooting of John Brannigan, 28, in front of a tavern at nearby Ellisonville. A hearing was scheduled for Monday.

HALT BUILDING

300 Tuscarawas Laborers Walk Off Jobs, Seek Higher Wages.

DOVER — (INS) — Tuscarawas county's building boom came to an abrupt halt today as carpenters and truck drivers affiliated with AFL unions struck for higher wages, and bricklayers, plasterers, painters and laborers laid down their tools in sympathy.

More than 300 men were affected by the walk-out. Work came to a standstill on the construction of 30 new homes and two industrial plant additions. The carpenters demanded an hourly wage rate of $1.12½, an increase of 12½ cents, and the truck drivers asked an hourly boost of five cents.

CHICAGO —(UP)— William M. Teeter Walker, 69, president of the Chicago National league baseball team in 1934-35 and for several years previously vice president of the club, died here today.

Hundreds Crowd Stores to Buy Spring Bargains

Clear and cooler weather greeted hundreds of shoppers who jammed Mansfield stores today on the first of two Mansfield Days during which 52 merchants offer spring and summer goods at attractive price reductions.

Lines of shoppers formed in front of a number of downtown stores before they opened at 9 a. m. today and streets and sidewalks thronged with buyers all day.

The annual shopping event will continue through Saturday evening, giving shoppers in the Mansfield trading area an opportunity to purchase summer goods at marked price reductions.

Stores and business firms offering Mansfield Days bargains are displaying yellow and black banners and pennants in their windows or in front of the business establishments.

We're Sorry, Appleseed Pupils, YOU Had a Great Style Show!

"What is this? gasped 670 boys and girls of Johnny Appleseed junior high school yesterday afternoon as they read the News-Journal.

"We put on the show and those John Simpsons get the credit!"

Over six columns of pictures on page 14 of Thursday's News-Journal appeared the headline: "John Simpson Pupils Modeling Clothing Made In Classroom."

And the story also said "John Simpson," when one and all knew very well that the girls in the pictures were from Johnny Appleseed, and that the style show was held at Johnny Appleseed, and as a matter of fact the N-J photographer had very little difficulty finding the show when he looked for it at Appleseed.

What a world of difference just two words made! Aside from the substitution of "John" for "Johnny" and "Simpson" for "Appleseed," the story was fine and the pictures were swell and the girls in the pictures were correctly identified in the cut-lines.

Pupils from the ninth grade home economics class at Johnny Appleseed shown in the pictures modeling dresses and play-suits were Joan Linkhart, Lavera McEowen, Helen Buchan, Peggy Sears, Mary Alice Spring, Betsy Champion, and Ann Millenbruck. Edna Tucker, instructor, directed the group.

The error was one of those things for which there appears little explanation, even though The News-Journal telephones were swamped with calls from the boys and girls of Appleseed demanding explanations.

In lieu of better, the words are these:

"We made an error, excuse it please."

Richland Farmers Watching Prices, Fewer Sign for AAA

Despite a government warning that there will be no big increases this year in farm prices, Richland county farmers are preferring to take a chance on price gains rather than restrict their acreage and collect federal AAA farm payments, Guy Taylor, county AAA chairman, said today.

With the AAA sign-up period closing yesterday, only 55 per cent of the county's farmers agreed to participate in the 1941 federal crop program as compared to more than 58 per cent last year. County AAA officials had expected the percantage to show a big gain.

Approximately 1,900 Richland farmers submitted applications for participation in this year's AAA program. The federal government last year paid county farmers more than $100,000 for compliance with the program.

Under the nation-wide program to produce more food for stricken European countries, Taylor said county farmers will be permitted to plant more tomatoes, sweet corn, and peas on idle ground this year without losing any of their government farm payments. The crops will be classed as non-depleting if they are intended for canning.

Although the department of agriculture took steps today to boost farm prices, department officials said prices are not expected to reach unusual levels since the federal government has huge surpluses of corn and wheat in storage which could be thrown into the market to halt rapid price advances.

Dispatches from Washington said today that the department of agriculture submitted a proposal to congress which would assure farmers co-operating with the Congresswoman Criticizes Handling of Defense Program.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Sharp criticism of the administration's handling of the national defense program was voiced by Congresswoman Frances P. Bolton, Cleveland, in Columbus today to address the opening session of the spring conference of the Ohio Federation of Republican Women's Organizations.

Numerous mistakes were made in constructing army camps, she said, citing observations at Camp Forrest, Tenn., where she recently visited two of her sons in training.

Sport Podge by REX HESS

"For 40 years," says Duke Weber, "I've been bowling, and for the past 23 years I haven't missed an A. B. C. And in all that time I never fouled once."

"You shouldn't," retorts Bill Donnellan, "with those tennis shoes you wear."

"Imagine my surprise then," says Weber, "when I wind up eight feet over the mark, over the gutter, and on the next alley. Somebody must a pushed me.

"And the foul line judge didn't ring the bell. He probably didn't know which alley I was bowling on."

It all happened at St. Paul, where a lot of other things happened, including the rolling up of the sidewalks at 9 o'clock at night.

It's a good thing the foul judge didn't ring the bell. The kegler on the next alley had an eight-bagger coming up, and t'would have been too bad if the bell ringer had robbed him of one of those strikes.

* * *

Liederkranz football fans who have been planning a Columbus trip May 10 to see Johnny Hallabrin playing fullback for the Buck varsity in an intra-squad game almost called the whole thing off a few days ago.

And so did Jarrin' Johnny.

Hallabrin had a pain in the side, and it was feared for a while that he'd have to have his appendix chpped.

* * *

"It was nothing more than a stomach-ache," reports Johnny's sister Susie. "He'll be okay on the tenth of May, and of that you may be sure. For the sure."

"Pooch" Pollock and I got to playing over a few old ball games, and the talk got around to that band-box ball park in Zanesville.

"I'll never forget," says Pooch, "the time the Great Americans were playing down there and Ray McCafferty from Crestline was pitching for us.

"A loud bunt was a home run, and a swing in the dark was a double for sure off those right and center field walls. Our outfielders were running themselves ragged chasing those rebounds off the fence.

"Finally, about the fifth inning, Harry Bruner, who is playing centerfield for us, grabs one of those things off the fence and carries the ball clear into the infield.

"'Hey, Mac,' he yells, "walk a couple men while I get my breath back.'"

And this you may believe or not. But one day at Zanesvill I saw Dizzy Nutter fall down to get away from an inside high one. And while he's falling, his bat accidentally touches the ball, and away it goes over that short right field fence.

There was Dizzy on the ground, and the ball going over the wall. And he had to get up and brush himself off before starting his stroll around the paths.

Walters Stops Dodgers

Bucky Ends Win Streak at Nine-Game Mark.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

ONE of the most drab, colorless pitchers in big league baseball is William Henry Walters, jr., of the Cincinnati Reds. He is a tallish, slender, sandy-haired right-hander who says very little off the diamond and nothing at all on it. He has the kind of grey-green eyes that never show excitement.

But Bucky Walters, once a mediocre infielder, deserves to be rated right now as the best hurler in the National league and quite possibly the best man in the "clutch" in any league. He also is a good man with his bat, when necessary.

Bucky stopped the nine-game winning streak of the Brooklyn Dodgers yesterday, just as he had calmed the Flatbush Fury at the same stage a year ago, with the most courageous and effective effort of the season.

The temperature dropped 16 degrees to 51 in Brooklyn during the game, and Walters' fingers got cold just like those of the 18,000 fans. But he was able to turn on the heat at the right moments.

With the score tied at 1-1 the determined Dodgers loaded the bases with two out in the ninth inning on Joe Medwick's double and two walks, one intentional. But Walters just took his time and struck out Pete Coscarart to send the game into extra innings.

In the 11th, after two were out, Walters stretched a hit to centerfield into a double with a daring slide and scored on a single by Eddie Joost. When the Dodgers again loaded the bases in their half of the inning on two singles and a walk, Walters never wavered. He fanned two lefthanded pinch hitters, Peter Reiser and Babe Phelps, to end the game.

The defection of the Dodgers gave the St. Louis Cardinals an opportunity to increase their first place margin with a 5-0 triumph over the New York Giants. It was the sixth straight win for the Redbirds, but the first time in their series with the Giants that their starting pitcher finished. The veteran Lon Warneke kept nine hits well scattered.

In the only other National league game the Pittsburgh Pirates rose up in the wrath that comes from long frustration and overwhelmed the Phillies 15-2, with Russ Bauers pitching five-hit ball and his mates mauling three opposing hurlers for 23 safeties.

The Cleveland Indians kept their winning string intact at seven games by outslugging the Philadelphia Athletics by a 13-8 score.

It was a hit-hitting day in the American league with the exception of Washington's 7-0 shutout of the Chicago White Sox. Each team got eight safeties in this one, but the Senators' share included a homer and two doubles by Cecil Travis.

The Boston Red Sox battered the Detroit Tigers 15-9 in a spectacular session that included 20 hits by Boston and 13 by Detroit, none of them homers. These teams had put together 31 hits the day before.

The New York Yankees, who bombarded the St. Louis Browns with 14 hits on Wednesday, increased the shelling to 17 safeties yesterday and won 14-5. Charlie Keller drove in seven runs, getting a homer and a triple, while Joe Gordon made four hits for the second consecutive day. Ernie Bonham was able to coast to his third victory.

Indians Run String of Victories to Seven In Row

CLEVELAND—(AP)—If the other eastern teams are worse than Philadelphia, the Cleveland Indians told themselves today, then the American league pennant race should be a breeze.

Fresh from three consecutive victories over the Athletics which ran their winning streak to seven, the Redskins crossed bats with Boston in the opener of a two-game series.

Al Milnar, who beat the Tigers Monday for his second triumph, faced the slugging Red Sox, Boston picked Rookie Dick Newsome for mound duty.

Most of the important action in yesterday's 13 to 8 victory over Philadelphia centered around Bob Feller.

The Iowa fireballer struck out seven batters to run his major league string to 1,002, became the first American league pitcher to win four games and hit the second home run of his career.

Feller pitched hitless ball for five innings, but eased up when the Indians took an 8 to 0 lead. He allowed eight hits, but 10 walks kept him in trouble late in the game. Home runs by Benny McCoy and Bob Johnson were included in the eight hits.

The Indians blasted the offerings of Jack Knott, Rankin Johnson and Herman Besse for 18 hits, including Feller's homer and six doubles.

Jeff Heath had another big day, rapping out a double and two singles to drive in three runs. Ken Keltner drove in two tallies with a pair of doubles. Every player in the Cleveland lineup had at least one hit.

The Indians announced the optioning of Joe Krakauskas, southpaw pitcher, to Syracuse of the International league on 24-hour recall. He came to the Tribe in a winter deal that sent Outfielder Ben Chapman to Washington.

* * *

The release reduced the Cleveland roster to 26, only one over the limit effective May 15. The club still has seven outfielders and is expected to cut one of the gardeners before the deadline.

Blues Again Hit Win Trail

Kansas City Swamps Indians In Opener.

(By United Press)

Back in familiar home precincts, the Kansas City Blues were started once more on the victory trail which brought them the American association pennant the last two years.

The rampaging Blues knocked off Indianapolis, 8 to 2, before 13,636 fans in their 1941 home opener yesterday to move into second place in the standings only one game behind first-place Louisville.

The Indians chased rookie George Barley out of the box in the first inning but Charley Wensloff held them scoreless the rest of the game. Bus Mills of the Blues slammed out two triples.

The large attendance assured Kansas City of the George M. Trautman attendance trophy.

Three of the four western clubs came through in their home inaugurals. Minneapolis was the only loser, falling to Columbus, 7 to 4. Preacher Roe and Murray Dickson scattered 10 Miller hits while Columbus staged a five-run splurge off Mickey Haefner to sew up the game in the fifth inning.

Milwaukee upset Louisville, 8 to 5 while Manager Red Kress hit two home runs to pace St. Paul to a 6 to 4 triumph over Toledo.

Introducing The Braves

Rudolph Okleson, Cleveland, right-handed pitcher . . . a versatile young man . . . tosses a "high hard one," but modestly confirms the fact that his baseball pitch is no faster than his stick-accumulating mineralite . . . a proficient bowler, he rolled a 278 game in a recent league match on his alleys, where he carries a 170 average. "I got eight or nine strikes in a row," Rudy explained. His best series was a 630 . . . Hurled for the Charles O'Connels in Cleveland last season, winning three and losing the same number . . . Only 19 years of age, young Okleson is no infant. He is six-feet-four and tips the Toledoes at 180. . . . Names Lou Boudreau, the Indians' shortstop, as his favorite ball player.

11 Colts Prepared For Race

Wide-Open Derby Seen In 67th Classic.

By EDWARD W. COCHRANE

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—(INS)—Unless there are some late scratches today, which appears at the moment to be highly improbable, 11 colts, cream of the crop of three-year-olds on the American turf, will parade postward tomorrow in the 67th Kentucky Derby. . .

The 11 are Our Boots, Porter's Cap, Whirlaway, Robert Morris, Blue Pair, Market Wise, Dispose, Swain, Little Beans, Staretor, and Valdina Paul.

If this were the sort of race that has been run many times in the Derby with an outstanding favorite like War Admiral, Twenty Grand, or Gallant Fox, it is likely not more than five of those would sport their colors before the 100,000 guests Col. Matt Winn expects to pour through the gates of Churchill Downs tomorrow afternoon.

But this is not that kind of a race. It is as open as a coed's mind on matters of romance, or more so. The hard boots down here will tell you that a Kentucky-bred hoss is going to win, sure enough. Well, you may be informed they are taking in a lot of territory, because most of those that will face the starter came from the blue grass country originally.

In fact the race is so wide open that the owners have not been paying too much attention to the weather—for the first time in the memory of the oldest hard boot. Most of the colts can run on any kind of a track, so why should they worry?

The prediction is that it may rain some. But mere showers won't disturb the track at the Downs a lot, unless they come with more than the usual regularity of showers that fall in Maytime in Kentucky.

Because of an influx of good California money that has been placed on Charley Howard's Porter's Cap, he has been backed down to equal favorite with Our Boots—the prevailing price being 2 to 1. That's short odds the day before the big race but you can't get more.

There is a feeling that Our Boots is the horse to beat, and therefore his price may be a shade better than the Cap's at post time. However, a large delegation from Hollywood, headed by Joe E. Brown, arrived and tossed a lot of loose change on the mahogany while uttering words to the effect that Charles Howard would win his first Derby. That cash matched anything that the natives cared to risk.

Porter's Cap is so perfect, as shown by a light workout yesterday, which was his last, that he'll go postward in as fine condition as a horse can be. If he loses he will have no excuses.

Market Wise, surprise winner of the Wood Memorial, and Robert Morris worked three quarters together and looked great. Something more for the followers of the others to worry about. Little Beans got quite a setback today when it was announced that Don Meade would not be allowed to come here to ride him. Meade must ride for the man who holds his contract.

There was a slight rush of Dispose money this morning. That son of Discovery is back in swell shape again.

* * *

As for the others, they're all ready. You could shut your eyes and stick a pin through the program, and maybe have the winner.

Lead of 77 Pins Held In Joust

Akron O'Neil's Appear Ohio State Winner.

DAYTON—(AP)—Unless one of 16 class A teams rolls more than 3138 over the week-end, the Akron O'Neil's will be crowned the 38th Ohio state bowling champions, acquiring with the title a $500 cash award.

The O'Neil's, 77 pins in front of their nearest rivals, rolled into first place on Easter Sunday and are figured practically "in" on the eve of the Buckeye tenpin classic's windup. Closest team is the Aubry Realty aggregation of Toledo, which used Billy Mattison's 300 game to advantage in scoring 3061.

The class B title will not be decided until the final shift Sunday night. Before the competition ends, 38 squads will vie to upset the 3053 pacesetting score of the Cleveland Geco Service Shops, who took first place two weeks ago. Between the settling of the state championship and the "B" title winner, six minor events' diadems will be awarded Sunday.

Only one of these can be considered as virtually cinched before the final cannonading. That is the all events title which at present is headed toward Akron's Buzz Fazio who amassed 2004 the day the O'Neil's dropped in and claimed the five-man lead.

Dayton, the host city, commands only one divisional leader in Arnold Cimmern and Mike Redelle, who top the "B" doubles with 1293. The remaining groups show Cleveland holding first place in three spots and Canton's W. Mielke heading the class B all events. The team of J. Klares-A Black, Cleveland, has 1338 in the "A" tandem flight while Roy Rice leads the "A" singles and L. Grojeck, the second flight individual event.

Akron, Columbus, and Cleveland will hold numerical superiority when the final delegations arrived for a last fling at the championships. The Akron City Chevrolets, ranked on a par with the O'Neil's probably will attract the largest gallery.

Owens Seeking Record

Former Buckeye Bullet Attempts Comeback.

By DON SMITH

COLUMBUS — (UP) — A lithe, slightly-built sprinter who electrified the track world in 1936 with three individual Olympic triumphs, is again speeding over the cinders, preparing for a "final" comeback.

Running in the familiar confines of Ohio stadium, scene of his earlier glory, mercury-heeled Jesse Owens, now 28 and father of three daughters, has his mind set on establishing a new world quarter-mile record.

If and when that is done, the most famous Ohio State track alumnus says he will be satisfied to settle down to a coaching career.

The former Buckeye bullet, who sped to four Olympic victories at Berlin five years ago, does not have much to show for three years of professional trouping so he's back at Ohio State to finish his schooling.

Owens will make his first comeback appearances tomorrow when he runs at the Newark, O., relays in the afternoon and repeats at the Salem, O., relays the same night. The former Ohio State sensation will run the 100-yard dash and compete in the broad jump at Newark and will run the 440-yard dash at Salem.

Jesse has his eyes on the world record of 46.4 seconds for 440 yards held by Bill Carr of Pennsylvania. Although Owens never ran the distance in his collegiate days he feels he can come close to establishing a new quarter-mile record.

Although his trouping as a professional didn't prove too lucrative, Owens is not sorry he deserted the amateur ranks.

"I learned a lot of valuable pointers," Owens said today. "I had some great experiences that I wouldn't have had if I had returned to school for my senior year. I settled down during that period and now I'm ready to go to work. You know, I got a family to support now."

Owens said that his wife and three children live in Columbus now.

For the future, Owens says he has his eyes on a coaching job at Southern University at Baton Rouge, La. Owens will be graduated in August or at "least by December."

Owens still is undecided as to what were his greatest performances, his grand slam of four victories, three of them new world records, at the western Conference meet at Ann Arbor, Mich., in 1936 or his four wins in the Olympics.

On that particular day at Ann Arbor, Jesse ran the 100 in 9.4 to tie the world mark, covered the 220 in 20.3, the 220-yard low hurdles in 22.6 and board jumped 26 feet 8¼ inches for a trio of new world records.

Owens took the 100 and 200-meter runs at Berlin, the broad jump and ran the first leg on the winning sprint relay team.

Tygers Entered In Three Meets

Mansfield high school track team will be divided into three sections tomorrow for competition in as many different relays, Coach Harry Mehock announced.

The greater part of the Tyger thin-clad squad will go to Newark. Included in this section are: Burrage, Woodbury, Lantz, Nameth, Sowash, Bergstrom, Yarmon, Hipp, Burkholder, Atwater, Shiplet, Jones, Abele, Dietzel, Packard and McGinty.

Entered in the Toledo Divelbiss relays will be Butterfield, Hedrick, Becker, Palmer and Witchey.

* * *

Going to Cleveland for the West Tech relays will be Young, Robertson and Daugherty.

Trophies Offered For Golf Meet

BUCYRUS—Two local business establishments are offering trophies in the northwestern district high school golf tournament to be played on Bucyrus Country club course Saturday, May 17.

The C. Warnock and company are offering a trophy for the winning team and the Nedele trophy will be a special award to the winning coach in a match for coaches which is also scheduled.

Teams to be entered include Lima South, Lima Central, Ashland, Mansfield, Kenton, Mount Vernon, Fremont, Findlay, Marion, Galion and Bucyrus.

* * *

The winning team and the runner up will be eligible to enter the state tournament in Columbus the following week.

Indian Scouts Watch Braves

Buzz Wetzel and Bill Bradley Check Players.

Watching over the workouts of the Mansfield Braves today are Buzz Wetzel, chief of the Cleveland Indian farm system, and Bill Bradley, head scout of the Tribe.

Bradley announced he expects to be here 10 days for a thorough check-up of the youngsters Cleveland has sent to the Mansfield club.

Two pitchers were cut loose by the Braves last night, Kosloff and Art Paul being the ones to feel the ax.

New additions to the squad yesterday were Bill Salem, Cleveland outfielder, Charley Lawrence, 6-foot, 9-inch first baseman from Newark, George Green, Cleveland infielder, and Norman Weaver, infielder from Richmond, Ind.

Harry Siegbert, veteran first sacker, was expected to make his first appearance today.

WESTERN SCHOOL WINS TRIANGULAR MEET

Western school track team swamped West Fifth and Prospect in a triangular meet yesterday at Stadium field. Western chalked up 43¼ points, West Fifth 9¼ and Prospect 6½.

Emmerson and McBride each won two events for Western, and then ran on the winning 440-yard relay team.

and a Geared-Up America

Their place in the diet of a vigorous, healthy nation

You can't "gear up" on unbalanced meals. You can't do and feel your best when you're not getting the B vitamins you need.

		VITAMIN B GROUP
		B₁ (THIAMINE) MICROGRAMS(†)	B₂ (RIBOFLAVIN) MICROGRAMS (‡)	ANTI-PELLAGRA FACTOR MILLIGRAMS

	Heart	659	1980	7.8
	Sweetbreads	373	907	3.[illegible]
	Brains	280	439	9.0

Based on ¼ pound edible portion before cooking—(†) Thiamine: 1 microgram = ⅓ International Unit. (‡) Riboflavin: 1 microgram = 4 Sherman-Booher Units.

WITHOUT regular and adequate intake of the B vitamins (which are not stored in the body), the human system is subject to failing appetite and many disturbances, including nervous disorders.

Meat, as the chart shows, is a good source of these important vitamins which the government now recognizes as an important factor in national health and well-being.

MEASLES CASES CONTINUE TO SWEEP COUNTY

800 In April, Commissioner Says 'We Haven't Had Time To Count Them All.'

Measles swept into May yesterday with unabated vigor with more than 800 cases in Mansfield and Richland county being reported in April.

"We have been so busy that we haven't had time to count them," said Dr. R. C. Rehder, city-county health commissioner, in speaking of the influx of new cases.

Last week, Rehder announced that the city health department had curtailed other operations such as its well-baby clinic and school inspections to devote most of its time to the epidemic.

The commissioner said that about 450 of the cases reported in April are in the city and 350 in the county. Prior to April only 86 cases had been reported. Of this amount, 74 were in Mansfield and 14 in the county.

The total of 886 cases is still far below the record 1,274 reported in 1938 wher one fatality occurred. Rehder pointed out that because the disease moved in a three-year cycle that it had been expected to strike this year.

Rehder's latest figures, however, show an increase in this disease's intensity. On April 17 only 435 cases had been reported. On April 23, 510 were recorded, an increase of 75 in less than a week. An approximate 800 now, only eight days later, shows an increase of nearly 300.

The latest increase seems to prevail in city and county alike. Up until last week, only 324 cases were reported in Mansfield and 186 in the county. Rehder reported yesterday, however, that ratios at 450 and 350, an increase of 126 for the city and 164 for the county.

THEATERS

Technicolor Musical.

"That Night In Rio," Technicolor musical extravaganza, opening at the Ohio, Saturday, returns the stars of "Down Argentina Way," to the screen in an even more lavish production than its predecessor. Carmen Miranda, the Brazilian singer and dancer, Alice Faye and Don Ameche head the cast that appears in one sparkling South American sequence after the other. "The Samba," popular Brazilian dance is introduced by Miranda and a corps of dancers, and hit tunes include "They Met In Rio," and "The Baran Is In Conference."

Mystery Film

A mystery story writer who likes to get his material first hand finds complications when he takes a burlesque queen into his confidence in "Footsteps In the Dark," opening Saturday at the Madison. Errol Flynn abandons his usual role of the swashbuckler to essay the part of the author harassed by a suspicious wife on one hand and a suspecting mother-in-law on the other. Brenda Marshall, Lucile Watson, Ralph Bellamy and Alan Hale are in the cast. "Ride On Vaquero," with Cesar Romero is the second picture.

Famous Trial.

"The Trial of Mary Dugan," with Laraine Day and Robert Young opens today at the Ritz. Ken Maynard and other western players are featured in the co-attraction, "Lightning Strikes West."

Plane Thrills.

Jack Holt's action-packed picture "The Great Plane Robbery," showing at the Park has most of its locale aboard a transcontinental plane. As a detective assigned to keep a killer alive Holt faces all kinds of exciting problems when gangsters take command of the plane and land it in a secluded nook. Noel Madison and Stanley Fields play the racketeers and Vicki Lester and Hobart Cavanaugh are also in the cast. Roy Rogers appears in the second film "Young Bill Hickok."

Fights For Law.

Fighting on the side of law and order instead of against it "Billy The Kid," is seen in a new episode, "Billy The Kid's Fighting Pals," at the Majestic. In the supporting cast are Al St. John, veteran screen comic, Charles King, and Phyllis Adair. Hugh Herbert finds himself the center of attraction in "Meet the Chump," Film No. 2 with Hobart Cavanaugh and Ed Gargan.

STAGE SHOW

SHELBY—A capacity audience attended the first performance of the operetta, "Pinocchio," last night in the high school auditorium as the annual spring program of the Shelby elementary schools. The second performance of the program will be given at 8 p. m. today.

Directed by Mrs. John Armstrong, elementary music teacher, the program included special music by the rhythm orchestra of the younger grade students.

PAM—Playing Safe? By A. W. Brewerton

JEFFREY, THIS IS SUCH A COMPLETE RECORD OF YOUR INVENTION WE HAVE HERE, ARE YOU SURE NO ONE KNOWS YOU COME HERE, HAS FOLLOWED YOU?
I HARDLY THINK SO, PAM. I TAKE THE MOST ELABORATE PRECAUTIONS TO AVOID THAT—DON'T SEE HOW ANY ONE COULD!
WHEN I START HERE I TAKE A CAR OR BUS GOING THE OPPOSITE WAY, RIDE A LITTLE DISTANCE, HOP OFF AND MAKE SURE NO ONE FOLLOWS ME—SEE?
SOMETIMES I REPEAT THIS PERFORMANCE MORE THAN ONCE, TO BE CERTAIN. THEN, WHEN I REACH YOUR BUILDING, I DO A SIMILAR STUNT WITH ELEVATORS AND STAIRWAYS. HOW'S THAT?
SOUNDS PRETTY THOROUGH

RALLYING URGE BACK IN MART; LEADERS CLIMB

Steels Show Fractional Gains as Brokers Note Some New Buying.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — The rallying urge came back into the stock market today and leaders edged up fractions to a point or so.

Prominent early gainers included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet, N. Y. Central, Chrysler, U. S. Rubber, American Telephone, Kennecott, Westinghouse, Woolworth and Standard Oil of N. J.

Carriers continued to reach for higher quotations in the bond department. Commodities were steady.

Some short covering and new buying, brokers said, accounted partly for the stiffening of share prices.

Market followers saw further confirmation of the upward business swing in the Dun and Bradstreet survey disclosing retail spending throughout the country this week mounted to record high levels for this time of year.

The review placed merchandising sales for the week at 15 to 20 per cent above the comparable period of 1940, with demand for many categories of goods topping the spring figures of 1929.

Fine Berea Driver—Joseph Volcnik of York road, Berea, was fined $10 and costs today in Municipal court by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch. Volenik was arrested for speeding by state highway patrolmen on Route 42.

Held In County Jail—Accused of contributing to the delinquency of a 17-year-old Bellville girl, Ward Kershner, 55, Bellville, was held in the county jail today awaiting a hearing scheduled for late this afternoon. The charge was filed by the girl's mother.

Reports Camera Theft—Ward Bennett, 448 Glessner avenue, reported to police late yesterday that a box camera was stolen from his auto yesterday while it was parked on Luther place. Bennett told police that he was away from the auto only ten minutes.

Teachers Meet—W. L. Miller, superintendent of schools, will speak at the regular meeting of the City Teachers' association at Johnny Appleseed Junior high school Monday at 4 p. m. The meeting place has been changed to Appleseed from John Simpson Junior high school, according to Margaret Wheeler, president.

Warns Attacker—Carl W. Wolf, Cleveland, was given a suspended sentence of 180 days in the Columbus workhouse today by Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in Municipal court after he pleaded guilty to an assault and battery charge. He was arrested last night on the complaint of his brother, Harry Wolf, Greenwood avenue, who charged that he kicked in his office door in the Mohican building and assaulted him.

Richland Sales Tax Revenue Increases For Third Week.

Continuing to show a big increase over collections last year, Richland county sales tax receipts for the third week of April totaled $15,161 as compared to $12,307 for the corresponding week last April.

Receipts for the week represented a 23 per cent gain over the same period in 1940. The increase started in February and has been consistant since then.

Collections for this year total $188,702, a $26,000 increase over the corresponding first four months of 1940, State Treasurer Don Ebright reported.

In the state, 1941 receipts have mounted to $15,836,669 for a gain of $2,600,000 over the period to April 20 last year.

FOLK SONGS IN BOOK GIVEN BY SOROSIS CLUB

Collection of 142 Ranges From Early Hymns to Modern; More New Novels.

Presented as a gift by the Sorosis club in memory of deceased members, "A Treasury of American Song," edited by Olin Downes and Elsie Siegmeister, is now in circulation at Mansfield Public Library.

The book contains a general collection of 142 American folk songs, ranging from early hymns to modern blues and is representative of many phases and periods in native American life.

Descriptive and historical comments supplement the words and music.

Other books added this week include: MY BLOOD AND MY TREASURE by Mary Schumann, author of "Strife Before Dawn" is an historical romance that centers around the struggle for Detroit in the War of 1812, and the incredible exploit of Oliver Perry in destroying the vastly superior British fleet on Lake Erie. The story is told through the eyes of Rufus Hazard, American soldier of fortune, who, after having joined forces with Perry meets the mysterious and exotic Louise and falls in love with her, only to learn that she is pledged to Tecumseh's cause —the cause of the British.

NEUTRAL GROUND by Frank Hugh is a tale of the conflict of loyalties during the revolt of the American colonies—as seen particularly in that strip of territory in Westchester County, lying between opposing armies, known as the neutral ground—and centered around a spirited Westchester family that succeeded in remaining "neutral."

FLOTSAM by Erich Maria Remarque, author of "All Quiet on the Western Front," is a harrowing novel of three German refugees, continually being driven from one county to another, without passports or money. Their days are spent hiding from the police in jail, or savoring brief respites made possible by an occasionally indulgent government's permit for a few days' temporary residence. It is filled with much indignation and bitterness, yet throughout there runs a tender love story.

Other fiction: LONG MEADOWS by Moody, BLUE CLOAK by Bailey, PEACOCK FAN by Keeler.

YOUR SPEAKING VOICE by Harrison Karr is designed as a guide for those who desire to improve their everyday speaking voices. The book is a combination of general principles, letters to the author from well-known orators giving their secrets of success, explicit instructions, practical exercises, and selections for practice.

THIS UNBALANCED WORLD by Elmer C. Brat is a new, unemotional and simply stated view of the problem of economic instability which discards many current proposals for putting idle dollars to work and seeks to find the solution in an examination of the more basic factors of capitalistic operation. The author is Associate Professor of Economics at Lehigh university

NEW DIRECTIONS IN THE NEW WORLD by Adolf A. Berle is a volume of essays on economic problems and their bearing on our relations with the South American states. Contents. American patterns in a post-war world. The Lima conference and inter-American peace. One nation indivisible: Problems of business in a democratic economy. A banking system for capital and capital credit: Heirs of the future.

SEE 'HOLY WAR' LOOMING AS NEW BRITISH THREAT

Iraq Forces Move Against Empire Troops In Oil Territory.

quantities of new war material—much of it American made—now pouring into Africa.

The German radio broadcast a report from Turkey asserting that Iraq's premier had called on the nation's fierce-fighting Moslems to "shoulder a rifle . . . the hour of struggle seems to be near."

The premier was further quoted as declaring:

"The Iraq nation will not submit to humiliations inflicted by a foreign power. We are waging a sacred struggle."

The Iraq radio station was said to be broadcasting martial verses from the Koran, the sacred book of the Moslems.

A London spokesman acknowledged that "a somewhat critical situation" had arisen between Britain and the Iraq government of Premier Seyid Rashid Ali Al Gailani, who gained power in an alleged Axis-inspired coup d'etat a month ago.

The arrival of a second contingent of British troops, apparently to guard Iraq's great Mosul oil fields against any Axis thrust, was countered by the massing of Iraq troops around the British airdrome at Habbaniyah, 60 miles west of Baghdad.

Despite a protest by British authorities, asking Iraq to withdraw the soldiers "lest an incident arise," so far the Iraq troops have remained.

On the North African front, tank-led Axis troops and planes were said to be joining in a heavy attack on the British at Tobruk, seeking new openings in the fort's 30-mile perimeter of defense.

"Italian and German planes continued to bomb the Tobruk defenses where our pressure is becoming ever stronger," said Premier Mussolini's high command.

Cut off from the nearest British troop columns by more than 80 miles, defenders of the post saw their outer fortifications that the garrison would continue to hold out until Gen Sir Archibald P. Wavell can muster strength to counter the Axis drive into Egypt.

Nazi quarters in Berlin said violent attacks by German dive-bombers had silenced numerous British batteries around Tobruk.

It was apparent that Axis forces were making a supreme effort to wipe out the post, which threatens the German-Italian line of communications stretching more than 900 miles from Tripoli to just beyond the Egyptian frontier.

Across the Mediterranean, the Germans reported full occupation of the Grecian Peloponnesus with all British troops "eliminated" on the Greek mainland.

The Nazi high command said Nazi tanks sank a British transport — apparently one of the B. E. F. "escape fleet"—and forced another to surrender under heavy fire from the shore of the Gulf of Corinth.

Lieut.-Gen. Sir Thomas Blamey, deputy commander-in-chief of the British middle east armies, said removal of the B. E. F. contingent had been completed with the rescue of 43,000 men. By contrast, military circles in Berlin asserted that two-thirds of the B. E. F., or approximately 40,000 men, could be regarded as "lost." The German figure included casualties and prisoners. The Germans said 8,200 British were captured in southern Greece alone.

FUNERAL SET

Body of Rev. Harris to Lie In State at Church Tomorrow.

Funeral services for Rev. William C. B. Harris, 85, of 250 West Third street, who died at his home yesterday will be held at the First Lutheran church at 2 p. m. Saturday. Services will be conducted by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer.

The body will remain at the Finefrock funeral home until 11 a. m. Saturday when it will be removed to the church to lie in state until the funeral hour. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

Rev. Harris was born in Mansfield Sept. 11, 1855. The Harris home at that time was located where the Mansfield postoffice now stands.

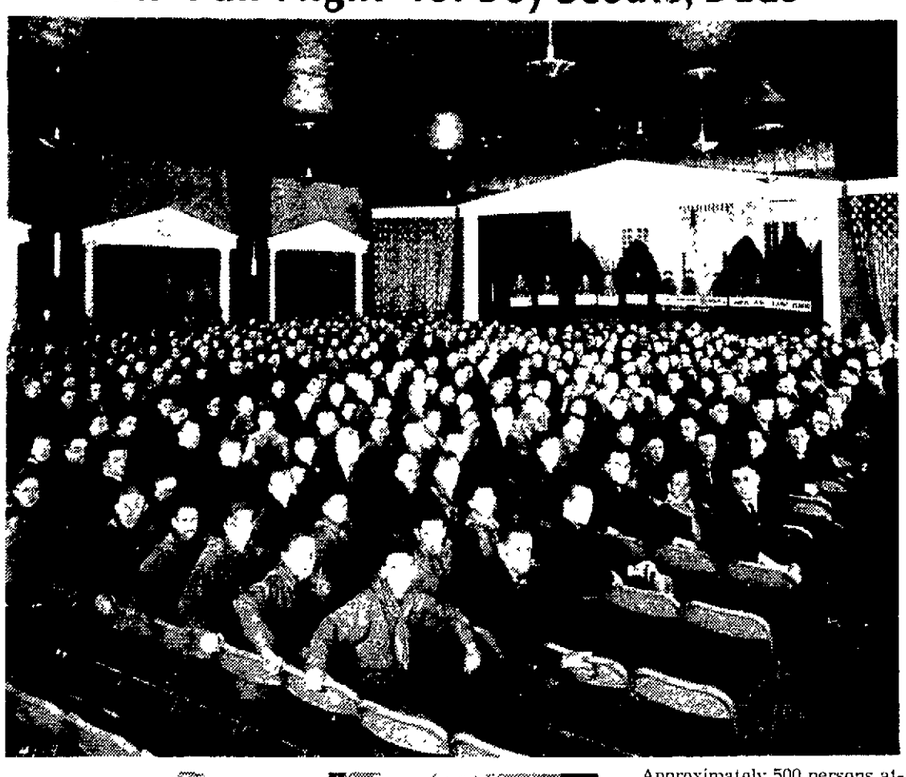
He attended Mansfield schools, business college here and studied law for 18 months with the late Judge Geddes. He was graduated from Hamma Divinity school, Wittenberg college in 1896.

He held pastorates in Ashland and Wayne counties for 11 years, served in Akron, Oregon, Ill., Smithville, O., and the North Mansfield charge. He retired from the ministry in 1929 and had served as supply pastor in Mansfield churches.

He served as a conference president and as delegate to the general synod.

His widow, Mary Elizabeth Hetler Harris, whom he married June 11, 1896, survives, with a sister, Hester Alberta Harris. Two sons preceded him in death.

At 'Fun Night' for Boy Scouts, Dads



Approximately 500 persons attended the Boy Scout and Dad's fun night at the Westinghouse auditorium last night at the annual get-together and program by Scouts and guests. The packed auditorium and a scene from a tableaux is shown in the picture above. The Scouts shown across the stage are depicting the 12 Scout laws. Shown below are, left to right, J. Gilbert Baird, master of ceremonies at the show, Floyd Dent, area Scout executive, and C. G. Hillier, general chairman in charge of arrangements for the program. A special demonstration of the flint and steel process of making fire and a talk by Vernon E. "Sam" Vining featured the program. These photos were taken by A. BRITISH GIRD FOR NEW FIGHT

Empire Troops Ready for Next Battle After 'Terrible Retreat' in Greece.

military funeral was held for one man who had been wounded by a bomb fragment before he embarked and died aboard our ship. The transport came to a dead stop as his body was lowered into the sea and 12 riflemen fired a salute.

The British expeditionary force, its tank men without tanks, its aviators without planes, its exhausted artillerymen without guns, its infantrymen and machine gunners, its nurses and surgeons tirelessly tending the wounded, and with the Greek and Jugoslav stragglers who escaped with us—had not only a story to tell of disaster but also of heroism.

With us also were women and children, the youngest child 10 months old, and one American woman who had escaped from Jugoslavia and joined the British army at an island she reached with her Canadian husband. A New Yorker, her father is a United States treasury representative at Toronto.

The British Expeditionary force had fought day and night up to the beaches of the Peloponnesus where the German parachutists machine gunned the small boats which put out from the shore.

And on the voyage to Egypt, the surgeons and nurses had fought a fight with death in treating the wounded.

It was necessary to leave some of the wounded behind, in charge of a base hospital corps which volunteered to remain with them.

But as for the expeditionary force proper, an Australian brigadier said aboard our transport:

"All but the damned fools, the stragglers and the unfortunates wounded or killed along the roads, by the German planes will be evacuated."

SENATORS HIT SHIP TRANSFER

Call Transfer of Belligerent Vessels 'Act of War'; Planes Pooled.

a house committee, it would authorize the president not only to take over foreign flag vessels in this country, but to negotiate for the purchase of idle vessels in other western hemisphere ports.

Under present plans, all such vessels would be put into the 2,000,000 ton shipping pool the president has instructed the maritime commission to assemble for transfer to foreign registry. This cargo fleet would carry war supplies to Britain.

The commission announced yesterday that 50 big American tankers would be assigned to carry oil from South American ports to North Atlantic ports, where it will be trans-shipped for British use. The tankers would remain under American registry.

Land was said to have disclosed plans to acquire Great Lakes and river craft which might be placed into the coastal trade on necessary routes, to make larger vessels now in use there available for the British.

Private aircraft as well as privately owned ships were being pooled for Britain's use. Responding to a request from President Roosevelt, between 20 and 30 privately owned transport-type aircraft were placed at Great Britain's service.

Concentration of his drive and energy on this problem would relieve Churchill of many of his cares and permit him to devote his full time to the military and diplomatic aspects of the war, British pointed out.

Political observers said Beaverstock's new post would make him, in effect, a sort of deputy prime minister.

It appeared the change would not affect the composition of the existing inner war cabinet of which Beaverbrook has been a member

Two other minor government changes were made, Col. J. J. Llewellin and Frederick Montague trading their respective posts as parliamentary secretary to the ministry of transport and parliamentary secretary to the ministry of aircraft production.

The Daily Express, published by Beaverbrook, said

"Lord Beaverbrook's transfer to a job without departmental cares means he can be thrown by the prime minister into the battle whereever it is hottest."

Leathers, who takes over the new wartime communications portfolio, has been advisor on coal to the ministry of shipping. He is a director of 51 corporations with world-wide connections.

Born in London's peer East End, he began his career as an office boy and is now managing director of the company with which he started

WARNS AGAINST PRICE INCREASE

Henderson Ceiling Will Be Put on Prices to Meet Unjustifiable Rise.

can be more destructive to sound operation of business enterprises than rapidly rising prices with their dislocating effects on the upside and their ruinous losses which they inevitably cause when the collapse comes."

Dr. Harriet Elliott, consumer commissioner of the office of price administration and civilian supply, reported that there was "daily evidence" that many manufacturers who were maintaining stable prices were "seeking adjustments in quality."

"For the retailers of the nation as well as for the consumers, a downward spiral of quality will bring consequences, some of which are as serious as those that would attend an upward spiral of prices," she said.

"If we allow the quality of our consumers' goods to depreciate to a point where they must be replaced after a comparatively short time in use, we will have wasted not only materials and purchasing power, but labor and machines."

Red Cross Here Issues Appeal for 400 More Workers

that 6,000,000 garments must be made by Red Cross organizations throughout the country by the end of December if the homeless and suffering men, women, and children of war-torn countries are to be clothed.

Volunteers will find garments all cut and assembled, ready for sewing, at the Red Cross Production Center, 43 West Fourth street. Yarns for knitted garments may be obtained at the executive headquarters, 11-12 West Fourth. Mrs. R. O. Scott is in charge of all cutting and assembling and Mrs. D. B. Chapman directs the knitting Both will furnish instructions to workers.

Work may be taken home, Mrs. English said, and returned to the Production Center when completed. She suggests that every woman in Richland county with time to give to this service set aside at least one-half day each week for Red Cross production.

Approximately 9,000 garments were given the Richland county chapter as a quota. This number is exclusive of the "Toddler's Pack," containing clothing for children nine months to two years old. This pack includes sweater, mittens, beanie cap, two pairs rompers, woolen snow suit, two part-woolen undershirts, two sleeping garments of outing flannel and 10 diapers.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, MAY 2, 1941.

Many derogatory things are said about dandelions—but you've got to admire their persistence.

The motorist who drives at breakneck speed should remember how that kind of speed got its name.

Now there's a rumor that oil has been struck in Switzerland—just as if that little country hasn't already had enough trouble keeping out of the war!

Defense Bonds and Savings Stamps

EXCEPT that emphasis is now being placed on the word "defense," instead of "war," the newly launched campaign to sell savings bonds and postal savings stamps is strangely remindful of World war days, when Liberty bonds and similar savings stamps were patriotically publicized and liberally purchased.

No more impressive presentation of the administration's belief in the urgency of "all out" defense and aid-to-Britain has appeared than that which stresses the importance of putting surplus savings into these bonds and stamps.

Secretary Morgenthau commented that "even a boy or girl who saves 10 cents to buy a defense savings stamp would help the country."

The fact that this is being made an appeal to the patriotism of every citizen to subscribe to the limit of financial ability serves to suggest belief of government officials that other forms of savings or investments should be abandoned during the period of emergency, and all surplus funds invested in these government securities.

Defense bonds, issued in denominations of from $5 to $1,000, are similar to the government "baby bonds," of which more than five billion dollars worth were bought by more than two and a half million persons since 1935, when they were issued to meet mounting government costs.

With a new tax bill now before congress, intended to raise $3,500,000,000, it is estimated that the government will still be compelled to borrow $6,000,000,000 during the year beginning in July. It is hoped to raise half of that amount by sale of defense bonds and stamps to many small investors.

The savings stamps are in denominations of from 10 cents to $5, to be exchanged for a bond when a sufficient amount has been purchased. Bonds and savings stamps are being sold at the postoffice.

Record of Airline Safety

SEVENTEEN airlines operating in and from the United States were honored recently by the National Safety Council for flying in 1940 without a single passenger fatality. That may surprise some people as several serious airlines accidents in recent months have overshadowed the vast amount of routine flying which goes on steadily without trouble of any sort.

One airline has flown a billion passenger miles in five years without losing a passenger. In Group A, composed of lines that operate 100,000,000 or more passenger miles yearly, the first award was earned by completion of 959,599,024 such miles without a fatality. The record of the second was 414,568,326.

In Group B, the safe mileage totals for first and second place were 94,803,998 and 58,181,817. The winner in Group C, for lines operating less than 10,000,000 miles, had flown safely 24,515,766. Eleven airlines had no passenger fatalities in 1940.

All these records were made in a year which saw a 50 per cent increase in passenger travel by air. In fact, last year was tops in traffic and, in safety, second only to the period of 17 consecutive months in 1939-40 during which there was no passenger death on any commercial airline.

Birthplace Becomes Shrine

THE BIRTHPLACE of Woodrow Wilson at Staunton, Va., is to be dedicated next Sunday as a national shrine. It is a modest house, formerly the manse of the First Presbyterian church of Staunton.

History has not yet assigned to Wilson his permanent rating, but there is evidence that it will be high in world esteem. For a few years Wilson's idealism created a great vision of world peace, freedom and justice. Then, weary apparently of the effort required to fulfil that vision, people called it an impractical dream and turned away from it to try isolation.

Today, many are beginning to wonder if the vision wasn't more practical than that of isolation.

Estimate of Convicted Officials

THE CITY OF DETROIT has been going through the unpleasant experience of cleaning up a mess of crookedness and graft which involved a number of persons in official positions, including a former mayor.

After trial and conviction of more than a score of former officials and their associates the Detroit News concludes "there no longer is a presumption of innocence to keep us from discussing their crimes."

An unfortunate feature in connection with crookedness on the part of a public official is that it encourages the pessimistic idea that nobody can be trusted. Men elected or appointed to public positions of responsibility and trust are chosen because they are believed worthy of confidence, and more than average in honesty and good behavior is expected of them.

So, whether in Detroit or elsewhere, the editorial comment of the Detroit News on the public attitude toward officials who prove unworthy of the confidence reposed in them, may be regarded as applicable to past, present and future malfeasance in office.

"These crimes," says The News, "were of the most contemptible order. The streetwalker who sells her body for a miserable livelihood forfeits our respect. The panderer who feeds on her earnings is an object of disgust. But the grafting public official who, in violation of public trust, battens on the panderer and his victims is incomparably lower than all of them. His greed lacks the palliation of necessity; it is loathesome."

The temptations constantly thrown in the way of public officials are too alluring to be resisted by mental or moral weaklings. If there must be a choice between dependable honesty and mediocre ability it appears that honesty had best be given preference.

Remember that in 24 years fire took 240,000 American lives, and destroyed almost $10,000,000,000 worth of American property. Then resolve to do your part to make sure that won't happen again.

WITH PROSPECTS OF A BUMPER CROP

Favor Propaganda Disclosure Bill

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

ANY TIME the American Civil Liberties Union (Roger N. Baldwin, national director) can't see an invasion of our citizenry's civil rights in a piece of legislation, enacted or proposed, it's a pretty safe conclusion that no such danger is involved in the enactment or proposal. The Civil Liberties Union is as sensitive to that sort of peril as a thermometer is to the slightest change in temperature.

Well, we have a law now requiring all agents in the United States representing foreign principals, except purely commercial, to register with the state department. It's intended to identify fifth columnists, propagandists and the like, here to create sentiment in behalf of overseas governments. Representatives of democratic governments aren't excepted, but of course the statute really is intended to spot totalitarian agents.

The law is o. k., in the Civil Liberties Union's announced opinion.

A plan also is pending in congress to regulate publication, in this country, by foreign principals' agents, of printed matter. The scheme's to compel the agents to publish, with the literature their names and addresses and those of their principals, too. The aim, likewise, is to exclude from the United States all foreign-published propaganda, except as inclusive of the names and addresses of its responsible authors. Senator Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin is sponsor of the bill.

O. K., says the Civil Liberties Union again.

Draw the Line Here.

But the Union draws the line against prohibition of anonymous publications by Americans in their own home land.

Senators Guy M. Gillette of Iowa and Rayond F. Willis of Indiana are boosting for a law to this effect in the upper congressional chamber and Representative George W. Gillie has one on the docket in the lower house.

Similar state laws and municipal ordinances are being urged in various legislatures and city councils.

The Union opposes them all.

It draws a sharp distinction between foreign propaganda in our midst and domestic agitation in favor of policies in which Americans themselves, though in a minority, believe.

If foreigners want to propagandize amongst us, all right, reasons the Union; let them do it. But likewise let them identify themselves, so that we'll know the sources of their output and will be in a position to discount it accordingly.

But, adds the Union's statement of its position, "anonymous publications have played a significant part in our struggle for liberty," and, "in parts of the United States, dominated by political machines or industrial interests, it would be almost suicidal for a minority to expose itself by taking the responsibility for publications in opposition to such powerful forces."

One Argument.

I'm not particularly attempting to advertise the Union's opposition to our domestic so-called "disclosure" bills. Personally I'd think that even a minority, with a good cause to speak for, shouldn't object to subscribing to its remarks, even up to the point of suicide, if necessary.

What I'm seeking to emphasize is the fact that an outfit as wholeheartedly pro-civil liberty as the American Civil Liberties Union deems it perfectly legitimate to make foreign propagandists tell who they are.

It's AMERICAN civil liberty that the Union's for; not liberty for totalitarians to undermine it, if they can.

The Union has been somewhat unfavorably publicized in the past, because it everlastingly has been in the business of defending minority groups' rights, which has made our majorities sore. Here's an instance in which it's more or less on the popular side. I always liked the group, and feel like giving them the breaks when there's a semi-chance.

Listen World!

To Modern Youth

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

THE FIFTH COLUMNISTS, Chronic Crybabies and local Propagandists are going to town these days, and a lot of their results are piling up on my desk. For, as might be expected, they are doing some of their smoothest jobs on the Youngsters, telling them how "frustrated" and "thwarted" they are, 'n' what a Dirty Deal we Oldsters have handed them, 'n' how the Downtrodden Should Arise. Which, to my idea, is tops in malicious mischief.

The immediate cause for this outburst is a letter from a sweet little kid in Milwaukee who doesn't want me to publish her name because if The Boss knows she is planning to marry, she'll lose her job. Whereupon she naturally feels abused and states her case so typically that I'm handing it along. And don't fool yourself that it and thousands like it are not Important and Urgent Business for these United States.

Dear Miss Robinson—

We post-war children are the most unfortunate victims of circumstance ever born. From birth we were cursed with a load of taxes we can never pay. Then the depression dumped us, out of our cribs, not into colleges and jobs but into hopeless unemployment where only five out of fifty boys get work.

"Forced to support ourselves, we girls cannot even marry openly if our intended husbands have fair salaries. We have to marry secretly and forego all the happiness of a wedding. As for children, my own mirror reflects the defeat in my eyes when I realize that the inborn mother love in me must be squelched because there will be no babies' step to guide.

"You may think that I'm a coward but I'm not. I have every right to be a wife and mother and I shall fight to be.

But if I and my generation are plighted in our hopes for success and happiness, which is ours by right of natural law, someone is going to pay and pay dearly!"

I don't think you're a coward, honey. I'll bet any odds you're a grand little trooper, with plenty of heart and head. But I wish you'd tell me from which of Papa Stalin's Bogey-Man Books you clipped that bleat. For it's just a lot of cheap, agitator hokum and nothing else but.

You're mad—and I don't blame you—because Youth is hard . . . because there are things you want Right Away and can't have . . . because you must bow to regulations and restrictions and take half a stale loaf instead of a whole chocolate cake.

But youth has always been hard. Life is hard. There's no such thing as "a natural right to happiness and success." There's only the chance to get in on the game and share the breaks. And maybe make them a little easier for the other fellow.

What's wrong with that plan? There's all the challenge and excitement any red-blooded kid could want, with romance around the corner and dreams ahead.

You talk about "living life." Well, youngster, that's life. Don't kid yourself there's any Ideal State, or ever will be. Or any Ideal Humans. And they'd give you the Screaming Meanies if there were. There's just the same old deal we've all had to face in our day, with the Younger Generation getting better breaks in this particular land than they do in any other nation on earth. And don't you forget it! As a matter of fact, it would never have occurred to you to doubt it, if someone hadn't told you you were Being Put Upon.

P. S. As for this notion that Newlyweds need all these special, deluxe conditions to endure the bonds of matrimony, you'd be surprised, sister, to know how some of us managed on $6.75 a week. Perhaps if you were willing to roll up your sleeves as your mother did before you, and take the sacrifice and drudgery along with the bliss, you wouldn't have to marry on the sneak. And you could have those baby feet to guide, instead of a convertible coupe.

Materials for Britain Pile Up At Docks, Due to Lack of Ships

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Recently, an OPM press release announced that plans were being formed to spread out the placing of defense steel orders so that all plants worked to a maximum of capacity. Behind that was a neat scheme—but it died aborning.

The plan sounded reasonable, but the justice department's anti-trust division was startled when the OPM requested an opinion on the legality of setting up a board within the industry to farm out the government's orders. This savored strongly of the outlawed NRA code authorities, and the trust-busting officials looked disapprovingly down their noses. Then they spotted something that caused them really to blow up.

This was the discovery that the proposed board was to consist of Benjamin F. Fairless, head of giant U. S. Steel; Tom Girdler, turbulent labor-battling czar of Republic Steel; and Ernest T. Weir, president of Weirton Steel and foe of the Wagner act.

The anti-trust explosion was so vehement that the OPM, without waiting for a formal answer, hastily withdrew the plan and buried it in a pigeonhole. It is now gathering dust.

Good Neighbor Pilots.

ANOTHER "Good Neighbor" gesture will soon be made to our immediate neighbor to the south, Mexico. The state department will offer pilot-training courses to a number of Mexican youths in the United States.

Initiator of the idea was Vice President Henry Wallace. When he visited Mexico last year, one of the problems discussed was the shortage of aviators in the Mexican army. Wallace was told that Mexico wanted to undertake a pilot-training program similar to that in the United States, but lacked planes and instructors.

Wallace promised to see what could be done about obtaining help from the United States. However, when he broached the matter to the president, Roosevelt regretfully explained that planes and instructors could not be spared at this time. All available were needed for our own army and navy and for the British.

However, the president suggested, as a way out of the dilemma, that Mexico be invited to send a number of youths to get their training in this country. Wallace readily agreed, and the state department was entrusted with the plan.

White House Hamburgers.

TWO Pittsburgh steel workers are telling their buddies a fabulous story of their experiences in Washington last week. And the story is true.

Sent as union delegates to get the approval of Phil Murray on the new wage contract with Jones and Laughlin Steel company, they arrived in Washington late at night and were unable to obtain rooms in the packed downtown hotels. Finally they phoned a fashionable outlying hostelry, which had a suite vacant for the night that it would rent for $10.

Carrying their battered suitcases, they hustled out and were ushered into a handsome six-room suite. Before retiring, one of the men picked up the phone, asked for room service, and ordered "six hamburgers and a half gallon of coffee."

There was a long silence at the other end and the steel worker impatiently repeated his order. "There must be some mistake," came the reply. "This is the White House."

Startled, the steel worker replaced the phone. "This certainly is a screwy place," he told his companion. "I ask for room service and I get the White House. Somebody must be kidding me."

Just then the phone rang and a voice said, "I understand there is a coffee shop a few blocks away. If you will repeat your order, we'll see if we can get it for you."

More mystified than ever, the steel worker repeated his order. Fifteen minutes later a waiter appeared with six hamburger sandwiches and a big pitcher of coffee.

"Swell," exclaimed the delighted steel worker, "how much do I owe you?"

"Nothing, sir," the waiter said. "This is with the compliments of the White House."

The steel worker blinked. "Something's screwy somewhere," he remarked, "but it's okay with me, pal. Tell the president thanks."

Next morning the hotel cashier cleared up the mystery. The suite they had occupied belonged to Secretary Frank Knox, who was out of town, and they had apparently picked up his phone connected directly with the White House.

Shipping Shortage.

THE REPORT that 40 per cent of lend-lease cargoes are being sunk is only part of the story of the acute shipping situation facing Britain in the North Atlantic.

Because of the lack of ships, huge stocks of raw materials are piling up at U. S. ports. The accumulations have become so large that in some instances, such as steel, the British are actually turning back some of it for use in U. S. defense production rather than let it lie idle on the docks.

Merry-Go-Round.

INSIDERS give Theodore S. Watson, head of the Manhattan Railway company, the inside track for the presidency of the New York Stock Exchange. Watson has long been an advocate of exchange reforms and close co-operation with the SEC. . . . The house Republican farm committee has appointed an executive secretary to help it prepare for the 1942 congressional campaign. He is Don Berry, able Indianola, Iowa, editor and agricultural adviser to both Alf Landon and Wendell Willkie, who helped write the 1936 and 1940 GOP farm planks. . . . Editor's Note: Recently The Merry-Go-Round reported that Representative William M. Colmer of Mississippi had delayed action on the $150,000,000 emergency defense housing bill because of objection to the installation of electric refrigerators. Mr. Colmer, who has an excellent labor record, was not opposed to the bill itself, voting for it both in the rules committee and on the floor of the house. He objected to what he considered needlessly extravagant construction plans, a stand in which he was supported by many other congressmen. H. F. Gautier, Pascagoula, Miss., constituent of Mr. Colmer and owner of an ice plant, did not hold up a local housing project because of a controversy over the price of land. The price was fixed by an appraisement board and he accepted the figure without delay.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — An examination of the off-stage activities of most of Broadway's players emphasizes the fact that radio, unlike the theater and the cinema, has not been able to develop its own actors and actresses. There are a great many "name" players on the screen who have never known the stage, who have worked themselves into careers that have brought celebrity and stardom. Likewise, the stage has many exceptional people whose names have become bywords in the small towns from coast to coast, though they have never appeared in pictures.

But radio seems more of an adjunct to Hollywood and Broadway than an institution on its own. The men and women who take part in its drama are almost without exception recruited from the stage and the screen.

To ascertain the full extent of the airways' dependability on the Broadway theater one has only to look at the lists of players currently appearing on New York. Boris Karloff, Edgar Stehli, Josephine Hull, George Coulouris, Allyn Joslyn, Helen Brooks, Erskine Sanford, Canada Lee, Ann Blyth . . . the list is endless. George Coulouris is radio's new "Bulldog Drummond." Karloff is on the Inner Sanctum, a Sunday night mystery thriller. Joslyn appears opposite Helen Hayes on her Sunday evening radio dramas. Everett Sloans has appeared on 700 broadcasts since 1931. So it goes. You could keep on naming them like this until you ran out of paper.

IF SOMEONE will kindly cast Edward Trevor in a play where he can wear an ordinary pair of men's pants once again he, Trevor, will be grateful. Four times now he has appeared on Broadway and, so far, modern trousers have not been his happy lot. In "Mary of Scotland" with Helen Hayes he wore knee breeches. As Lafayette in "Valley Forge" he also wore knee breeches. Then came "Oscar Wilde" and knee breeches were again in order. Just the other day he went into "Lady In the Dark" to replace the ailing Vic Mature, and what they trotted out for him to wear was a pair of riding breeches.

NIGHTCLUB operators, because some of them came up from the prohibition era and brought with them the aura of rum-running and underworld high jinks, do not enjoy too savory a reputation. It is a pastime to sit around and complain that the operators of certain clubs are chiselers and no-goods.

Therefore it may be a helpful warning to eschew this practice if ever you are in that club known as the Whirling Top. For the operators are none other than the state of New York. It's one of those sad stories of unpaid taxes. Rather than lose all, the state decided to take over the club and keep the profits until the tax arrears are made up.

Grab Bag

One-Minute Test.

1. Who has the power to impeach the president of the United States?
2. Who said, "We must hang together or assuredly we shall hang separately"?
3. In setting a watch, should the hands always be turned forward?

Hints on Etiquette.

Persons who are members of groups riding on public vehicles or attending theaters or other places of amusement should not make so much noise, talking, laughing and possibly scuffling, that they annoy others present. Teen-age boys and girls are generally the greatest offenders along this line.

Words of Wisdom.

How poor are they who have not patience! What wound did ever heal but by degrees.—Shakespeare.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. The house of representatives, under the Constitution, has that power.
2. Benjamin Franklin.
3. They may be turned either way in the direction in which the correct time is the nearer.

A Farmer's Diary

Red Bud Tree

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE red bud tree is blooming all this week down near a little cottage door. No hint of leaves—just the lilt of crimson-painted petals that seem to start from trunk and branch alike. So red it appeared, like the early morning sky at dawn, it seemed aflame with something more than bursting buds. Here was beauty that hand could never paint, but the humblest human heart could feast upon. Here was wealth that even Solomon never dreamed of, blooming by an aged wayside home. And in that glow was warmth that would last until another spring.

I stood at the edge of the grassy lawn to look at it when an old man, stooped and gray, came over the threshold to stand upon the old warped porch. He greeted me and waited for my answer with toothless open mouth. Then he pointed to the rosebud tree with his cane, and motioned me to join him there.

"It's prettier this spring than ever, seems to me," he said. "I don't know what you think about miracles, but every time I look at that tree I'm sure the days of miracles ain't past yet! Them flowers seem almost like they was tellin' a body something.

"This house is gettin' old like me—we've grown old here together—somehow that bloomin' tree pears like something that's never been here before every year when April comes.

"Forty years ago my wife Sara and I brought it from south of here with a horse and buggy. We talked of where we'd put it as we drove along. She took it there. I dug the hole and Sara held it straight.

"Eight years ago this month I was left alone, but the last thing Sara saw was that tree and she asked me to put some of the flowers in her hand. I did—and more. There's even a prettier young tree growing where she lies. I don't feel quite so lonely when I think of that . . . yet there's an ache that seems to come from every bud, and still it kind o' satisfies."

490 New Autos 47 New Trucks Sold In April

Sales of new automobiles and trucks in Richland county approached a new high again during April with 490 new passenger cars and 47 new trucks registered with Clerk of Courts Howard Wenning.

Passenger car sales fell only one short of the March figure, highest in the county in recent years. The 47 new trucks sold last month represented an increase of seven over March and gave county truck dealers their best month in at least four years.

A total of 1,447 new automobiles were sold in the county during the first four months of this year, a gain of 21 per cent over last year's sales for a similar period figures compiled by Miss Ruth Them, deputy motor registrar, showed today.

ATTENDS CONCERT

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(U.P.)—The old saw about the postman taking a walk on his day off held true again here, but in an entirely different occupation. The touring Minneapolis symphony orchestra attended a concert by the St. Louis symphony orchestra in a body.

Adolf Hitler as a boy sang in the choir in the Benedictine monastery at Lambach.

STUDY FOOD STAMP PLAN AT ASHLAND

Government Approves Plan But Commissioners Have Not Made Decision.

ASHLAND — Ashland county has been approved by federal authorities for the food stamp plan but the final decision has not been made by the commissioners.

A revolving fund of $4,000 would be necessary to set the plan in operation and although the money is available for welfare work the board of commissioners were not sure they cared to adopt the plan.

At the time the representatives conferred with the county board a paper was signed which they contend was a tentative application for participation with the understanding they would make a definite decision within a month. No further decision was made.

Many interested relatives and friends of the 30 little folks enrolled in the Ashland Nursery school visited them Thursday in their regular nursery school program.

The board of education furnishes the rooms, and utilities. The co-sponsors, Women's Federation and other agencies furnish dishes, play equipment and food, cots and blankets. The WPA furnishes the teachers.

Miss Nora Vesper left Ashland Wednesday to sail May 2 to Africa where she will begin her eighth term as medical missionary from the United Brethren church. She has been located in Ashland since July and had expected to remain until later in the summer before returning to her work.

Not unaware of the dangers of crossing she complied with the American restrictions and is sailing on an Egyptian boat, El Nil, but has no guarantee of when she will reach her destination. El Nil will take her to Lagos Nigeria, South Africa and there she will take another boat to Freetown. From there she will go overland 55 miles to the location of the mission station at Rotifunk.

HOLD CLINICS

Conferences for Pre-School Children Set at Galion.

GALION — Annual pre-school conferences which are held for the purpose of checking defects of children who will start to school for the first time next fall, will be held next week, it was announced here this week by Lucy V. Ailer, director of health and visiting teacher of the Galion public school system.

The schedule for examinations is as follows: Monday, May 5, North school; Wednesday, May 7, East school; Wednesday, May 14, South school; Monday and Tuesday, May 19 and 20, West school. Conferences will be conducted from 8:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m.

Local physicians are cooperating in the examination, and children will be immunized against diphtheria and vaccinated against smallpox without charge.

HELD TO JURY

GALION — Cyril Leppert was bound over to the Crawford county grand jury in Mayor W. M. King's court, Thursday, following his plea of guilty to a charge of non-support.

HEADS LUCAS SENIOR CLASS

Miss Maxine Mitchell To Give Valedictory Address at Commencement.

LUCAS — Miss Maxine Mitchell has been named valedictorian of the 1941 graduating class of Lucas high school, an honor accorded the highest academic ranking member of the class, according to Supt. V. L. Gilliland.

Robert Gilliland, Lucas basketball and baseball star, has been designated as salutatorian, an honor bestowed upon the second highest academic rating in the class.

Both will deliver orations during the annual commencement ceremonies which will be held in the high school auditorium, May 20, when a class of 19 receive diplomas. Rev. Dr. G. E. Swoyer, of Mansfield, will deliver the commencement address.

Headlining social events of the school year will be the Junior-Senior banquet in the school auditorium. Mystery surrounds the banquet program which will be presented by the juniors.

Playing to a full house Seniors presented their annual play, "That Lucas Family," under the direction of Supt. Gilliland, Friday evening.

The Lucas schools will close for the summer May 22, it is announced by Gilliland.

CHAPTER VIII

Raye edged around to the side of the bed and stuck her feet into blue satin mules.

She went slowly to a window and looked out.

Old forest maples and oaks, pines and spruces nodded their heavy branches in the gentle breeze. Robins and a pair of cardinals strutted across the neatly mowed bluegrass. The crimson and pink of the rose arbor across the drive reminded Raye of how many times it had been a nuisance to discuss flower problems with Jimmy, her gardener.

She had built this home. She had, with the aid of experts in their several lines, planned the house, the grounds, the stables and garages. She had had the swimming pool torn out and enlarged so many times it now resembled a lovely miniature lake. There was badminton aid etnnis courts. Yet she had often regretted not being able to have, within the city limits, a golf course and a landing field for the airplane she proposed eventually to fly, in spite of Mawson Duke's advice to the contrary.

She laughed a little edgily now as she thought of this.

"Poor little rich girl!" she sighed, her lower lip quivering.

Everywhere she looked she saw for the first time how actually exquisite her daily environment had been. Before this, she had been so wrapped up in trying to entertain herself with her lively crowd that she rarely ever thought of her good fortune. She wondered now how she could have been so thoroughly ungrateful for what life had showered upon her.

She felt so loaded down with worry this morning! Was it only yesterday that she had been measured for that new mink coat and indifferently stroked and appraised the soft sleek pelts?

She'd have to cancel the order immediately, she thought, on a twinge of regret. Probably she'd be lucky after this if she wore rabbit!

Her trembling hands pressed hard against her throbbing temples and slowly she pushed golden curls up from her troubled eyes.

She wheeled about impatiently and went into her shower. She let a tepid spray soothe her aching body for long blessed minutes and gradually the tension of muscle and mind gave way. Her weariness vanished like magic.

She stepped out on a thick bath mat, quickly dried her firm little rounded figure on a huge soft towel, her brain spinning on a refreshing pivot of thought.

Nothing was ever so hopeless as it seemed, she told herself now. Some new way of life would surely open for her; there was nothing to worry about. There was Hal, for instance. She must get in touch with him as soon as he reached his office.

She rang for Celia and had breakfast sent up to her sitting room. The generous servings of orange juice, toast, bacon and coffee exactly suited her healthy appetite.

"What can't good food do for a person's morale!" she thought, again feeling more nearly like her old carefree self.

But when at last she succeeded in getting Hal on the phone, she had an impression of haste and annoyance, together with grave concern over his own affairs. This was highly unsatisfactory; she needed and had expected real sympathy from him.

"But don't you understand, Hal—Mawson Duke made had speculations—everything I had has absolutely disappeared. I—I don't know what to do!"

"That's a terrible mess, my dear—and I'm sorry. We can discuss it later, can't we? Ruthie's taking the twins to Atlantic City the last of the week. Then I'll be on the loose." He laughed significantly.

Raye took a long breath and said, "Oh, I see. I hope little Toots is better today."

'She's all right--but she's not extra strong. The doctor advised taking her out of this heat. After they leave . . ."

"We-ll—of course. Good bye, Hal."

"Just a second! You understand, dear, don't you?" The "dear" came so low that Raye nearly missed it.

"Yes, Hal."

She hung up before he could say anything further. She felt completely sunk now. But then, why had she expected Hal to rush to her? He couldn't perhaps realize how badly her affairs were involved. And even if he did, what could he do?

She supposed she was a weakling; she craved sympathy when, as a matter of fact, she should be brave enough to stand on her own two feet.

Very well, she could—and she would!

For appearance's sake she insisted that Aunt Susan go with her to Mawson Duke's funeral. Duke had been a bachelor with an only brother on the west coast. The brother had wired that he would arrive the following week to attend to business details. Mawson Duke had apparently cut himself off from all his other relatives years ago; no one seemed to know about them. There were few people present at the short service in the mortuary chapel. Mawson Duke was a man who had lived more or less to himself and he had few friends.

Aunt Susan wept all through the clergyman's eulogy, but Raye did not shed a tear. She was too taut with fear. Now that she fully realized that Mawson Duke was gone and nothing could bring him back or recompense her for his dishonesty, she felt insensible to emotion.

She seemed like a complete stranger even to herself; like some on whose thoughts and actions were a thing apart—so much so that she could easily criticise herself adversely. And up until now, she had thought rather well of Raye Stone!

But she attempted to console herself by remembering her legion of friends who did think well of her. Or at least for a long time they had professed to. She had been impulsively generous with them for years, had entertained them in lavish style from childhood up to now. And although she had been their leader in many a mad escapade, she had been active in philanthropic and social affairs, and been told repeatedly how helpful her mere presence was—that it lent glamour.

She no longer had any illusions about this sort of flattery and often had been thoroughly disgusted with it. She realized that great wealth fired the imaginations of a lot of silly people—climbers most of them—and passed it up as something her social position inspired.

Perhaps the reaction of all her friends to her new social status would be interesting to watch—or rather horrid.

"At any rate, I'll never let it get me down. Whatever happens, I'll never get jittery over anything so ridiculous," she decided quickly. Then wondered, half fearfully, if she could count on this.

FARMER LOANS NOW AVAILABLE

Farm Credit Representative at Courthouse To Receive Applications For Aid.

Farm Credit administration loans for Richland county farmers who need cash for planting crops or feeding their livestock are available to qualifying farmers through Clarence Fealty at the county agent's office in the courthouse, it was announced today.

Fealty, who is field supervisor of the emergency crop and feed loan section of the Farm Credit administration, is in Mansfield at irregular intervals, but applications for loans will be received at the county agent's office.

Loans will be made only to farmers whose cash requirements are small and those who are unable to obtain ready cash from any other source, Fealty said.

Loans will be limited to the applicant's needs in preparing and cultivating his 1941 crops or producing feed for his livestock.

As security, borrowers must give a first lien on the crop for which the loan is obtained or on the livestock to be fed.

AIRPORT BUSY.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah —(U.P.)—Traffic at Salt Lake City's airport—"the gateway to the west"—rose sharply in 1940. According to port officials, the daily arrivals and departures averaged 304 persons last year compared to 210 in 1939 and only one a day in 1926, when the port first assumed importance.

BRAIN BLAMED FOR VOICE ILLS

Personal Crisis Often Affects Vocal Tract, Declares Speech Physician.

(By United Press)

PHILADELPHIA — Dr. James Sonnett Greene, medical director of the National Hospital for Speech Disorders, said here that the thousands of persons being treated for "voice fatigue" today are really suffering from "brain fatigue."

Dr. Greene attributed the malady affecting the brain as arising from "some crisis of a personal or business nature which the individual fears he shall not be able to meet."

"This anxiety," Dr. Greene said, "affects the vocal tract and develops a disorder which furnishes his ego with an alibi for the anticipated failure."

Dr. Greene has called this voice sickness "psychophonasthenia." In normal parlance that means mental voice weakness.

True voice weakness is "phonoasthenia." Singers, lawyers, and ministers are often afflicted with it. Under it, the voice cracks, grates, shifts key or chokes off completely.

Phonoasthenia is remedied by using psychotherapy on the patient. The subject is taught primarily not to fear environment. In addition, the patient is instructed to accept his natural deficiencies without grieving.

MARRIAGES UP AT BUCYRUS

BUCYRUS—Divorces in Crawford county courts numbered 16 in April as compared with the issuance of 33 licenses to wed, a check of records at the courthouse discloses.

Licenses issued in April showed an increase of one-third as compared with March when 22 were issued.

Of the licenses issued in April, 11 were to youths under the age of 20. Eleven men were between the ages of 20 and 25, and eight were in the age group of from 25 to 30. Twelve men over 30 secured licenses to wed.

College Weather Studies Aid U. S. Army Engineers

HANOVER, N. H. —(INS)— Weather studies recorded over the past five years by the Shattuck Observatory at Dartmouth College have proven of great practical value for U. S. Army Engineers designing a proposed $500,000 airport near here.

Every hour for the past five years the Dartmouth observatory, directed by Professor Richard H. Goddard, has recorded the wind direction and velocity. These facts were analyzed and recorded, for which the army is now thankful.

When Professor Goddard sought modernization of the observatory equipment he told college officials wind measurements possible with automatic recorders would be invaluable if anyone undertook to build an airport in the vicinity of Hanover. He admits, however, that at the time he was theorizing and is as surprised as anyone else that the government is considering the project.

GIRL SCOUTS OF DISTRICT MEET IN CITY MAY 10

150 From Surrounding Towns Expected; Bromfield To Be Speaker.

Author Louis Bromfield will be the speaker at the Northwestern Ohio Senior Girl scout conference here Saturday, May 10, according to announcement made today by Miss Eleanor Bond, Girl Scout executive secretary.

He will speak on the conference theme, "Girl Scouts Prepared for Service," which will also be emphasized in a sketch presented by each visiting troop.

One hundred and fifty girls from Toledo, Ashland, Shelby, Bucyrus, Mt. Vernon, Newark and other cities are expected to attend the conference.

The morning program will include a flag ceremony, group singing, folk dancing and games.

Mrs. John W. Graham, Girl Scout Commissioner, will extend the welcome.

Following the author's address the conference will adjourn for luncheon at John Simpson Junior High school. Plans are being made for the Scouts to visit a local industry in the afternoon and meet for tea before closing the conference.

Final plans for the meeting will be made by Mansfield Scouts next Tuesday evening. Weather permitting, a picnic supper will precede the session

Council To Get Request For 10 Water Fountains

Council will be asked to appropriate $250 for the purchase of ten new drinking fountains to be used on downtown streets at its next meeting Tuesday.

The fountains will replace the cement ones seen on many street corners and will have automatic shut-off valves The present fountains run 24 hours per day while the new ones would run only when a lever is pressed

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that only one of the fountains would be installed so that its performances can be studied. The fountains would have an aluminum casing with a porcelain interior.

Crafton said that the new fountains would acutally act as an economy measure as less water would be wasted. He pointed out that on certain days when pressure is high, water is spilled into the streets while on others the supply is too low to allow persons to drink.

Most Enthusiastic Cameraman

Apparently bent on getting all the pictures he possibly could, this enthusiastic cameraman is pictured training two cameras on the beauties parading along the ramp during the Amateur Photographers beauty contest at Long Beach, Cal. The contest had a dual purpose—best pictures won and so did the most photographed girl.

War With China Has Cost Japan $4,000,000,000

PEKING, China—(INS)—Chinese in the occupied areas view with satisfaction that Japan's military victory has not been obtained at a small cost when it was disclosed that on military expenditures alone Japan spent yen 17,500,000,000 in the three years and nine months between July, 1937 and January, 1941.

At official rates of exchange, this vast Japanese bill would approximate over four billion dollars.

That the hostilities in China are not nearing an end and will prove even more costly to the Japanese nation between April, 1941, and January, 1942, is indicated in the new military budget which totals yen 4,880,000,000, approximately $1,140,000,000 in American currency. This sum is declared to be necessary for the China venture alone.

According to officially released figures, it would appear that Japan has spent and expects to spend at least the equivalent of $10,000,000,000. American currency per month for the China hostilities.

The flag acquired its present form in Spain in the sixth century. Before that it was small and square.

TEN JOBS HELD.

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. —(UP)— Besides serving as assistant judge of the Addison county court, George Chaffee has been a town representative, county senator, selectman, town school director, road commissioner, police chief, county game warden, federal game warden and justice of the peace.

Advisor Gives Rules for Happy Union

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

In the morning's mail comes a letter from a young man who expects to be married in June and would like the arrangement to be permanent. I'll quote a few lines from his letter:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"My girl has finally consented to marry me, and as I want to make her happy and stay married, I'm coming to you for a few suggestions. What do you think is the best way of avoiding those ugly jars, scenes, fusses, that sometimes make family life a mess?"

Hail! All success to the new school of husbands who feel they do not intuitively know all about women! This letter, as well as a couple of others I have had lately, is a most hopeful sign of the times. Are men really beginning to question that nature has not instinctively endowed them with every qualification for being perfect husbands? Marriage has always been an amateur's marathon for both sexes, but women have been humbler about their responsibilities than men.

No one really knows much about women, as every philosopher has affirmed. But certain rules to which the fair sex invariably reacts may be set down as a good working basis for matrimony.

First, have a distinct understanding about financial matters. Let your wife know what your salary is, and then establish the budget system. Decide what you want to spend for rent, food, clothes, amusement, and what's to be put by for emergencies.

The number of women who write me they do not know anything about their husbands' incomes is almost unbelievable. They don't know if he has any life insurance. They don't know if any provision has been made for the children, in event of the husband's death. This situation is all wrong.

After money matters have been settled, the next thing—equally essential to a happy marriage—is courtesy.

Why think, because a man or woman has paid you the compliment of marrying you, that you can sulk or growl and show temper? Politeness in the home is more necessary than money in the bank, credit at the grocer's or the ability "to look a million dollars" when you haven't five.

As this husband-to-be has asked for suggestions, please let me say that most of the shipwrecks in married life come from philandering.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, May 3.

The planetary configurations, both by lunar and mutual aspect, should presage such an unusual, intriguing and perhaps spectacular trend of events as to suggest a state of mental confusion or obscurity in the public consciousness. And public, community or group interests may be of transcendent importance, with the nature of developments surprising and bewildering. In such circumstances great discrimination and discretion are required in the happy and successful manipulation of private lives. Being carried away by personal emotions holds hazards.

If It Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is may participate in a year of great excitement or spectacular adventures, probably of a public or sensational nature. The personal emotions and excitements are liable to carry to heights of excessive expression or regrettable unconventionality. The mentality may be chaotic or confused, luring to dangerous intrigues, while discretion should bring proper gratifications and safe rewards.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"It took some managing," Dicky admitted, trying to look modest, and almost succeeding. "That conductor is sure some hard-boiled New Englander."

"That's why I called it a miracle," I said. "He impressed me as a man who wouldn't break the rules of his road for anything."

"Except a federal government badge," my husband rejoined. "You didn't know it, but Dad gave me some special credentials before we set out on this trip, said I might need them. And I did! But their effect on this old lad alone was certainly worth the price of admission."

"But what a time I had with him! I didn't show him my badge at first—they're only to be used as a last resort, you know."

"Yes, I know," I assented, a bit impatiently, I am afraid, for I was wild to hear how he had "managed" the conductor. "Do go on!"

"I ought to stand you in a corner with your face to the wall for your impudence," he teased. "You have no conception whatever of the deference due a husband."

Dicky's Story.

"I could get a divorce at Reno on grounds of mental cruelty, for just this performance," I told him, and he grinned lazily.

"No doubt you could, Sweet, but you won't, he drawled. "You love me to-o mad-ly."

"Are you going to tell me what you did to that conductor, or shall I get the rolling pin?" I queried, and he capitulated with a laugh.

"Don't shoot!" he apostrophized. "I'll come down," and forwith began his saga.

"I told the old boy that a gangster had boarded his train, and that I wanted to put him off, said that you were on board, and that he was trying to extort something from you, and asked him if he would stop the train for a half minute."

"Of course he refused, as I expected, and said, if I had such information, I should give it to the police at the next station, who would take care of the man. Then I told him that you and I were federal agents, and that we were trailing this man and did not want him arrested until we were ready to break the case. I told him that I would have to take the man by surprise, and that therefore I wanted the lights out in that car for two or three minutes, and then, fifteen minutes later, I wanted the train to stop for one minute.

"He had been quite impressed with the fact that we were federal agents, but when I asked him for those two things he drew back into his shell as quickly as any turtle. He intimated that he only had my word for what I had been telling him, and that it was beyond his province to do either of the things I asked, that he would risk his job by granting my requests.

"I saw I was up against a dead wall as well as a dead pan—"

"You ought to be killed for that last one," I said severely.

Capitulation.

"I know it," he acknowledged, grinning, "but anyway, I brought out those credentials; they would get you into the Kingdom of Heaven, I believe, they're so good, and the conductor grudgingly capitulated. But he stipulated that he would have nothing to do with the affair, except to turn off the lights and stop the train. He will not even come back into this car until we have reached New York. As far as the stunt we pulled is concerned, he's emulating those three famous little monkeys, who 'see nothing, hear nothing, speak nothing.'"

"You did a wonderful job," I said, then with sudden recollection, I put an anxious query:—

"Is Ronald going alone with Carolyn in the morning?"

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHO IS VULNERABLE?

In many a situation, the action you take depends upon which side, if either, is vulnerable. One standard situation of that kind arises when you reckon your side can make a game or set the opponents' doubled bid a couple of tricks. If you are vulnerable and they are not, you have to beat them four tricks to get a better score than the game. If they are vulnerable and you are not, defeating them a mere two tricks will give you the better result. The same principle applies to part score deals. If your side cannot make a game, you do better by setting them even one vulnerable doubled trick than by making a less-than-game contract. This is just as true in rubber bridge as in match-point duplicate, though the latter makes it clearer because the hand usually gets played at various contracts.

South led his club K against this, and then, wishing to retain a chance for North to lead through East's probable guarded J, switched to the spade Q. The A won, the K was knocked out by the return, and East then ran four heart tricks, followed by the diamond A. He then was doomed to lose the rest. When he led his diamond 8 to the K, South switched to a spade, so that his side finished with tricks in the black suits. This defeated East only one trick, but since he was vulnerable, it gave North and South a score of 200, top on the board for them in the duplicate where the hand was dealt.

	♠ A 9 7 5 3 ♥ 9 8 7 2 ♦ 9 5 ♣ 8 6
♠ 8 2 ♥ Q 6 5 ♦ Q 10 7 6 3 ♣ 7 4 3	N. W. E. S.	♠ K 10 ♥ A K J 10 ♦ A 8 4 ♣ J 9 5 2
	♠ Q J 6 4 ♥ 4 3 ♦ K J 2 ♣ A K Q 10

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	1 NT
Dble

Most tables produced a contract of spades for North-South, who made three-odd for a score of 90 plus 50 bonus for part-score contract, or a total of only 140. These declarers lost one trick in spades, two in hearts and one in diamonds.

Of course, if West, over the double of 1-No Trump, had made a weakness takeout of 2-Diamonds his side would have been in a makable contract, but he passed on the hope that the doubled contract could be made for a top score. Anyway, if he bid the diamonds, the opponents would have gone into spades, though not for any top score.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ 9 2 ♥ J 10 9 8 ♦ K 10 9 8 7 6 ♣ 3
♠ 8 5 ♥ K 7 6 5 4 ♦ Q 5 3 ♣ 8 7 5	N. W. E. S.	♠ A K 3 ♥ A Q ♦ J 4 ♣ A Q J 9 4 3
	♠ Q J 10 7 6 4 ♥ 3 2 ♦ A 2 ♣ K 10 2

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

If the defenders take the club A, two top spades, two high hearts and East then leads the club Q, how can South keep from losing any more tricks at his contract of 3-Spades on this deal?

Trend Toward U. S. Entry In War Noted

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Of Mice and Men.

SOME time ago—last year, when "The Time of Your Life" was running, to be specific—I had a theory about William Saroyan. My theory held that Saroyan was a delicious hoax perpetrated upon the drama-going public by the ever-mischievous, ever-tongue-in-cheek George Jean Nathan, with the assistance of a couple of the boys whom he could trust to keep straight faces.

Dorothy Kilgallen

I had a picture in my mind's eye of Mr. Nathan in his den at the Royalton, chortling over his typewriter as he threaded elegant words together to convey to those able to read polysyllabics that this fellow Saroyan was the new White Hope of the American theater, a double-header genius, a composite of Molnar, Shakespeare, Pirandello, S. N. Behrman and John Millington Synge.

Soon, I thought, George Jean will sit down at that same well-oiled mill and write, "Folks, I was only kidding" (in his own words, of course), and then he will meander out into the streets and the taverns to observe the scarlet cheeks of all those who pretended to think Saroyan was a genius, too.

Well, that was the way I saw it. I saw the Saroyan build-up as the best hoax since the Loch Ness monster, and I found no fault with it because it seemed harmless fun in the established you-can-fool-some-of-the-people-some-of-the-time vein.

I just wondered when the denouement would come.

Now I have seen "The Beautiful People," and I am still wondering.

This seems to me as good a time as any for Mr. Nathan to break down and confess his little joke.

For now brother Saroyan has written a play about mice, and the play unmasks him.

He is not a genius.

He has not the literary courage of real genius.

He did not have the courage to make his mice wonderful mice.

He did not believe strongly enough in his own fantasy to make his characters extraordinary mice. That is what he started out to do but he got scared and backed away from his own whimsy and let his mice become ordinary, grubby little mousetrap mice.

What kind of genius do you call that?

I will admit Saroyan started "The Beautiful People" like a genius. He peopled his house with (besides the usual human characters) a thousand little mice who were in love with a girl named Agnes because she had a kind heart.

They were wonderful mice, in the beginning.

They brought the girl flowers and they spread them out on the living-room carpet in a way that spelled her name. They prayed for her when she was sick. One of them rode a trolley car all the way to town to fetch her a salted almond.

These mice belonged in a play. These were mice that had you on the edge of your seat wondering what would befall them.

Then Saroyan failed his own mice.

He wrote a speech for the young hero in which the young hero confessed that the mice were not wonderful mice at all. They had not spelled out the girl's name in flowers; he had. They had not prayed for her when she was sick; he had. One of them had not ridden a trolley car to town to get her a nut; he had.

What does that make the mice? It makes them ordinary, dime-a-dozen, cheese-eating mice, the kind you and I know very well and do not want to know any better.

It does not make them the kind of mice you pay $3.30 per ticket to see at the Lyceum theater, even on a rainy night.

The trouble with Saroyan is he has limited imagination but no faith. He can imagine mice who love a girl, but he cannot bring himself to believe in them. Sean O'Casey would have. Sean O'Casey would have created those extraordinary mice and he would have had faith in them; he would have told you they prayed and loved and wove garlands, and he would have defied you by heaven and Brian Boru and every banshee in County Mayo to prove they did not.

Father Nathan will never persuade me that Saroyan is a playwright. He was a good short story writer once. That was when he wrote "The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze." And he came close to being a playwright in three scenes of "The Time of Your Life," where the dialogue was fine—but only close, the way an outfielder comes close to catching a fly ball when he has it in his mitt for a second and then drops it. Saroyan is a literary butterfingers.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Mourn the who-dun-it. It's dying, or dead. Salute the he-done-it—the who-dun-it's successor.

ROBBIN COONS

And who "done" the murder of the who-dun-it? Fellows like Emlyn Williams and Alfred Hitchcock and Edward Percy and Reginald Denham and Russel Crouse and Howard Lindsay.

They "done" it through plays or pictures which let you in, right off, on who-dun-it—and keep you interested in the processes by which the blackguard comes a-cropper: "Night Must Fall," "Foreign Correspondent," "Ladies in Retirement," "Arsenic and Old Lace."

They're reels ahead of the flourishing theatrical mysteries of two decades ago, the clutching-hand and sliding panel chillers which survive mainly in Hollywood's quickies or in comedy versions: "The Bat," "The Cat and the Canary," "The Octopus," et al.

REGINALD DENHAM, co-author with Edward Percy of "Ladies in Retirement," and here on the screenplay for Lester Cowan's movie, suggests that a really good who-dun-it — with a good new twist—still goes, but the run-of-the-mill product has had its day.

Denham, from London where the play started before its New York hit, is an ex-singer, ex-actor, very active now in movie and stage direction and play-writing. Cowan in jest dubs him "the poor man's Orson Welles," and there's some basis for the comparison. He has co-authored half a dozen plays besides one on his own, has directed 22 English movies and some 80 plays.

DENHAM believes the English have an edge on the Americans in these murder melodramas—a belief borne out by the record.

"I don't mean to deprecate America," he says in the manner of one who certainly does not mean to deprecate America. "I believe it springs mainly from a difference in size of our two countries. America is a vast continent. England a small island. Americans have become so accustomed to sudden deaths—the highways, the gangster era—that only the unusual one makes the front page. If one person is murdered in a small island like England, the people are all interested and follow the case in detail in the papers.

SENATE O. K.'S OHIO'S BIGGEST SPENDING BILL

Cuts University Building Allocation as House Passes Traffic Code.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The largest spending bill in state government history — $352,706,159 for 1941-42 — went back to the house of representatives today with senate amendments adding $838,760.

Having passed its major piece of legislation after a two-hour debate, the senate then turned to another controversial measure liberalizing unemployment insurance benefits.

The bill, which the Republican leadership predicted would be passed, is estimated to increase benefits of the unemployed by $7,000,000 a year, raise their average weekly benefits from $10.25 to $11.50, and cut $9,000,000 to $11,000,000 from the payroll taxes of employers contributing to the state insurance fund.

Differences between the two branches undoubtedly will be compromised by next Tuesday and the legislators will be clear to clean up other pending legislation in time for adjournment perhaps late next week.

Despite the increases, Finance Director H .D. Defenbacher said the appropriation bill carried $113,000 less than anticipated revenues. Most of the balance, however, may be needed to finance an increase of 100 men in the state highway patrol.

The senate vote on the bill was 27 to 9, with eight Democrats joining the 19-member Republican majority in support.

The senators, revising the finance committee's allocations, reduced from $1,000,000 to $450,000 an increase for university building improvements. They also added $600,000 for poor relief loans to counties, $165,000 for control of Bang's disease in cattle, $50,000 for the industrial relations department and $21,000 for buying mine safety equipment.

The house approved the uniform traffic code and returned it to the senate for concurrence in an amendment increasing the legal speed limit from 45 miles an hour to 55.

TWO CLAIMS UP

Council To Be Asked To Pay Fire Truck Crash Damages.

COUNTY EXPECTED TO SEND 125 TRAINEES TO CAMP NEXT MONTH

Although Richland county selective service boards have been asked to send only one man to army training camps this month, the county is expected to provide approximately 125 trainees in June, it was learned today.

State selective headquarters today ordered draft boards to complete their classification of registrants as soon as possible and indicated that 11,000 men will be called to camp next month.

On the basis of camparative registrations, Richland county's share of the 11,000 trainees would be about 125.

The three boards have more than 200 men already examined and ready to report, however, so they are expected to have no trouble filling their June quota.

Board 1 has been asked to send one colored selectee to the Fort Hayes induction station May 13 for the only Richland countian scheduled for induction in May.

State selective service headquarters yesterday issued the 14th call for 75 colored men to report May 21. Richland county boards were not included in the call.

Physical examinations have been halted temporarily in the county, but boards are mailing questionnaires and continuing to classify registrants at a slackened pace.

SNYDER HIRED

High School Coach To Manage Liberty Park Swim Pool.

Members of the Mansfield Park commission gave cognizance of the annual "get into the swim" movement today in announcing they had selected Paul Snyder, Mansfield Senior high school football and swimming coach, as pool manager of the Liberty park pool for the summer season.

Mansfield swimmers, young and old, will get their first chance to use the pool on Decoration Day, May 30.

The commission also announced that three other pool employes, including a lifeguard and two basket workers, would be appointed within the next week.

Frank R. Burton, parks superintendent, said that he and Snyder would inspect the pool and that work of scrubbing and cleaning its interior would probably begin around May 22.

MOVE SEEN AS ONLY WAY TO SAVE BRITAIN

Officials Drop 'Short of War' Phrase for 'Possibility of War' Talk.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—High officials of the American government today appear to be thinking more and more of the possibility of this country's actual entry into the war as the only means of saving Great Britain.

Hitherto, administration officials have talked of all methods "short of war" to aid Britain. At present, however, the trend of thought in high government quarters appears definitely to have passed that stage. Officials now talk of the necessity of saving the British at all costs.

Not only is this so in the private conversations of officials, but it is becoming apparent in the public statements of government spokesmen.

In fact, the administration's campaign to awaken the people to the gravity of the situation appears to be rapidly developing into a drive to prepare the country for the possibility of actual entry into the war.

It is more than three weeks now since any high administration official has mentioned American aid to Britain being restricted to measures "short of war." Vice-President Henry A. Wallace was the last to refer to this phrase which for so long was a feature of the government's foreign policy. In a speech before the foreign policy association in New York on April 8, Wallace said "we will help ourselves through helping England by all methods short of war."

This week, however, Wallace said the issue before the people soon may be "war or slavery."

Secretary of the Navy Knox has been most outspoken in advocating outright participation in the war. He minced no words in his speech before the publishers' convention in New York when he said that "this is our fight," and added "we can no longer occupy the immoral and craven position of asking others to make all the sacrifices for this victory which we recognize as so essential to us." He also told his press conference this week that "everybody in this room is familiar with the fact there is a possibility of war."

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the most restrained administration spokesman for full aid to Britain, has gone so far as to say the "safety of this hemisphere calls for resistance wherever resistance will be most effective."

The administration generally appears to be absolutely convinced the Axis has designs on this hemisphere and will put them into effect the moment Great Britain collapses.

Hull is known to feel it is an utterly short-sighted and extremely dangerous policy for the United States to wait until the Axis attacks this hemisphere before this country starts active resistance.

Willkie Asks U. S. To Provide Ships 'Until It Hurts'

NEW YORK —(NS)— Replying to isolationist arguments of Charles A. Lindbergh as published recently in Collier's magazine, Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential candidate, today asserted in an article in the same publication that if Chancellor Hitler defeats England, the United States can not escape war.

Willkie, in dealing with Lindbergh's request for a plan whereby America can help Great Britain win the war, recommended that the United States provide ships "until it hurts."

Taking the stand that the British combination of the air and the oceans "will destroy Hitler," Willkie contended that Lindbergh's assumption that vast expeditionary forces of American boys will be required are as much out of date as his belief that the leaders and people of Britain are confused and unprepared. "This is not 1914," he wrote.

German victory, Willkie asserted, would give the Nazis control of Europe and Africa, and would leave the United States "two choices, both equally fatal," trade with the totalitarian powers or an attempt "to live within ourselves."

Trend Toward U. S. Entry In War Noted

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

Of Mice and Men.

SOME time ago—last year, when "The Time of Your Life" was running, to be specific—I had a theory about William Saroyan. My theory held that Saroyan was a delicious hoax perpetrated upon the drama-going public by the ever-mischievous, ever-tongue-in-cheek George Jean Nathan, with the assistance of a couple of the boys whom he could trust to keep straight faces.

Dorothy Kilgallen

I had a picture in my mind's eye of Mr. Nathan in his den at the Royalton, chortling over his typewriter as he threaded elegant words together to convey to those able to read polysyllabics that this fellow Saroyan was the new White Hope of the American theater, a double-header genius, a composite of Molnar, Shakespeare, Pirandello, S. N. Behrman and John Millington Synge.

Soon, I thought, George Jean will sit down at that same well-oiled mill and write, "Folks, I was only kidding" (in his own words, of course), and then he will meander out into the streets and the taverns to observe the scarlet cheeks of all those who pretended to think Saroyan was a genius, too.

Well, that was the way I saw it. I saw the Saroyan build-up as the best hoax since the Loch Ness monster, and I found no fault with it because it seemed harmless fun in the established you-can-fool-some-of-the-people-some-of-the-time vein.

I just wondered when the denouement would come.

Now I have seen "The Beautiful People," and I am still wondering.

This seems to me as good a time as any for Mr. Nathan to break down and confess his little joke.

For now brother Saroyan has written a play about mice, and the play unmasks him.

He is not a genius.

He has not the literary courage of real genius.

He did not have the courage to make his mice wonderful mice.

He did not believe strongly enough in his own fantasy to make his characters extraordinary mice. That is what he started out to do but he got scared and backed away from his own whimsy and let his mice become ordinary, grubby little mousetrap mice.

What kind of genius do you call that?

I will admit Saroyan started "The Beautiful People" like a genius. He peopled his house with (besides the usual human characters) a thousand little mice who were in love with a girl named Agnes because she had a kind heart.

They were wonderful mice, in the beginning.

They brought the girl flowers and they spread them out on the living-room carpet in a way that spelled her name. They prayed for her when she was sick. One of them rode a trolley car all the way to town to fetch her a salted almond.

These mice belonged in a play. These were mice that had you on the edge of your seat wondering what would befall them.

Then Saroyan failed his own mice.

He wrote a speech for the young hero in which the young hero confessed that the mice were not wonderful mice at all. They had not spelled out the girl's name in flowers; he had. They had not prayed for her when she was sick; he had. One of them had not ridden a trolley car to town to get her a nut; he had.

What does that make the mice? It makes them ordinary, dime-a-dozen, cheese-eating mice, the kind you and I know very well and do not want to know any better.

It does not make them the kind of mice you pay $3.30 per ticket to see at the Lyceum theater, even on a rainy night.

The trouble with Saroyan is he has limited imagination but no faith. He can imagine mice who love a girl, but he cannot bring himself to believe in them. Sean O'Casey would have. Sean O'Casey would have created those extraordinary mice and he would have had faith in them; he would have told you they prayed and loved and wove garlands, and he would have defied you by heaven and Brian Boru and every banshee in County Mayo to prove they did not.

Father Nathan will never persuade me that Saroyan is a playwright. He was a good short story writer once. That was when he wrote "The Daring Young Man on the Flying Trapeze." And he came close to being a playwright in three scenes of "The Time of Your Life," where the dialogue was fine—but only close, the way an outfielder comes close to catching a fly ball when he has it in his mitt for a second and then drops it. Saroyan is a literary butterfingers.

SENATE O. K.'S OHIO'S BIGGEST SPENDING BILL

Cuts University Building Allocation as House Passes Traffic Code.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—The largest spending bill in state government history — $352,706,159 for 1941-42 — went back to the house of representatives today with senate amendments adding $838,760.

Having passed its major piece of legislation after a two-hour debate, the senate then turned to another controversial measure liberalizing unemployment insurance benefits.

The bill, which the Republican leadership predicted would be passed, is estimated to increase benefits of the unemployed by $7,000,000 a year, raise their average weekly benefits from $10.25 to $11.50, and cut $9,000,000 to $11,000,000 from the payroll taxes of employers contributing to the state insurance fund.

Differences between the two branches undoubtedly will be compromised by next Tuesday and the legislators will be clear to clean up other pending legislation in time for adjournment perhaps late next week.

Despite the increases, Finance Director H .D. Defenbacher said the appropriation bill carried $113,000 less than anticipated revenues. Most of the balance, however, may be needed to finance an increase of 100 men in the state highway patrol.

The senate vote on the bill was 27 to 9, with eight Democrats joining the 19-member Republican majority in support.

The senators, revising the finance committee's allocations, reduced from $1,000,000 to $450,000 an increase for university building improvements. They also added $600,000 for poor relief loans to counties, $165,000 for control of Bang's disease in cattle, $50,000 for the industrial relations department and $21,000 for buying mine safety equipment.

The house approved the uniform traffic code and returned it to the senate for concurrence in an amendment increasing the legal speed limit from 45 miles an hour to 55.

That bronze plaque which has gone unnoticed in the courthouse corridor for more than a score of years is getting more attention now that defense savings bonds and stamps are being sold again in Mansfield. Awarded to the people of Richland county by the Ohio War Savings committee, the plaque bears this inscription: "In recognition of the patriotism of the people of Richland county for oversubscribing in the war savings campaign." That gives the county a goal to try for this time.

The steam calliope of the Ringling Bros. circus will rend the air of the Bowman street showgrounds near the Empire Steel mill about mid-July. Mayor William J. Locke said today that a representative of the circus had been in town and had made a contract with the city for a water supply. The circus was originally scheduled to arrive here on June 19 but was postponed due to a change in its route.

Pupils at John Simpson Junior high school cutting capers with water pistols have led Harry J. Dotson, principal, to start a new hobby of collecting "squirt guns." He has approximately a dozen in his collection so far with no let up in sight. Pupils at the school have become so interested in water pistols that one suggested to J. H. Perril, science instructor, during physics class, that the group study the problem of "What makes a water pistol work?"

MOVE SEEN AS ONLY WAY TO SAVE BRITAIN

Officials Drop 'Short of War' Phrase for 'Possibility of War' Talk.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON—High officials of the American government today appear to be thinking more and more of the possibility of this country's actual entry into the war as the only means of saving Great Britain.

Hitherto, administration officials have talked of all methods "short of war" to aid Britain. At present, however, the trend of thought in high government quarters appears definitely to have passed that stage. Officials now talk of the necessity of saving the British at all costs.

Not only is this so in the private conversations of officials, but it is becoming apparent in the public statements of government spokesmen.

In fact, the administration's campaign to awaken the people to the gravity of the situation appears to be rapidly developing into a drive to prepare the country for the possibility of actual entry into the war.

It is more than three weeks now since any high administration official has mentioned American aid to Britain being restricted to measures "short of war." Vice-President Henry A. Wallace was the last to refer to this phrase which for so long was a feature of the government's foreign policy. In a speech before the foreign policy association in New York on April 8, Wallace said "we will help ourselves through helping England by all methods short of war."

This week, however, Wallace said the issue before the people soon may be "war or slavery."

Secretary of the Navy Knox has been most outspoken in advocating outright participation in the war. He minced no words in his speech before the publishers' convention in New York when he said that "this is our fight," and added "we can no longer occupy the immoral and craven position of asking others to make all the sacrifices for this victory which we recognize as so essential to us." He also told his press conference this week that "everybody in this room is familiar with the fact there is a possibility of war."

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the most restrained administration spokesman for full aid to Britain, has gone so far as to say the "safety of this hemisphere calls for resistance wherever resistance will be most effective."

The administration generally appears to be absolutely convinced the Axis has designs on this hemisphere and will put them into effect the moment Great Britain collapses.

Hull is known to feel it is an utterly short-sighted and extremely dangerous policy for the United States to wait until the Axis attacks this hemisphere before this country starts active resistance.

Willkie Asks U. S. To Provide Ships 'Until It Hurts'

NEW YORK —(INS)— Replying to isolationist arguments of Charles A. Lindbergh as published recently in Collier's magazine, Wendell L. Willkie, 1940 Republican presidential candidate, today asserted in an article in the same publication that if Chancellor Hitler defeats England, the United States can not escape war.

Willkie, in dealing with Lindbergh's request for a plan whereby America can help Great Britain win the war, recommended that the United States provide ships "until it hurts."

Taking the stand that the British combination of the air and the oceans "will destroy Hitler," Willkie contended that Lindbergh's assumption that vast expeditionary forces of American boys will be required are as much out of date as his belief that the leaders and people of Britain are confused and unprepared. "This is not 1914," he wrote.

German victory Willkie asserted would give the Nazis control of Europe and Africa, and would leave the United States "two choices both equally fatal," trade with the totalitarian powers or an attempt "to live within ourselves."

EXPECT 200 AT C. E. MEETING

Shelby To Be Host Sunday To 25th Annual Convention of C. E. Societies.

More than 200 young people are expected to attend the 25th annual convention of the Richland county Christian Endeavor society at the Evangelical and Reformed church in Shelby Sunday.

Principal speaker will be Rev. Guy Volpitto, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Loudonville. Theme of the meeting will be "Lives That Live."

Rev. Turner Holt, pastor of the Shenandoah Christian church and J. Robert Knight, director of recreation at the Y. M. C. A., in Columbus, will lead discussions during the afternoon program which starts at 2:30 p. m.

Officers will be elected at the afternoon business session of the conference. Twila Setterfield, president, will preside at the meeting.

Fred H. Ott, of Shelby, will preside at the evening session at 7:30 at which time Rev. Volpitto will speak again.

Attendance awards will be given to the society with the largest percentage of its membership present at both afternoon and evening sessions.

COUNTY EXPECTED TO SEND 125 TRAINEES TO CAMP NEXT MONTH

Although Richland county selective service boards have been asked to send only one man to army training camps this month, the county is expected to provide approximately 125 trainees in June, it was learned today.

State selective headquarters today ordered draft boards to complete their classification of registrants as soon as possible and indicated that 11,000 men will be called to camp next month.

On the basis of camparative registrations, Richland county's share of the 11,000 trainees would be about 125.

The three boards have more than 200 men already examined and ready to report, however, so they are expected to have no trouble filling their June quota.

Board 1 has been asked to send one colored selectee to the Fort Hayes induction station May 13 for the only Richland countian scheduled for induction in May.

State selective service headquarters yesterday issued the 14th call for 75 colored men to report May 21. Richland county boards were not included in the call.

Physical examinations have been halted temporarily in the county, but boards are mailing questionnaires and continuing to classify registrants at a slackened pace.

SNYDER HIRED

High School Coach To Manage Liberty Park Swim Pool.

Members of the Mansfield Park commission gave cognizance of the annual "get into the swim" movement today in announcing they had selected Paul Snyder, Mansfield Senior high school football and swimming coach, as pool manager of the Liberty park pool for the summer season.

Mansfield swimmers, young and old, will get their first chance to use the pool on Decoration Day, May 30.

The commission also announced that three other pool employes, including a lifeguard and two basket workers, would be appointed within the next week.

Frank R. Burton, parks superintendent, said that he and Snyder would inspect the pool and that work of scrubbing and cleaning its interior would probably begin around May 22.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Mourn the who-dun-it. It's dying, or dead. Salute the he-done-it—the who-dun-it's successor.

And who "done" the murder of the who-dun-it? Fellows like Emlyn Williams and Alfred Hitchcock and Edward Percy and Reginald Denham and Russel Crouse and Howard Lindsay.

ROBBIN COONS

They "done" it through plays or pictures which let you in, right off, on who-dun-it—and keep you interested in the processes by which the blackguard comes a-cropper: "Night Must Fall." "Foreign Correspondent." "Ladies in Retirement." "Arsenic and Old Lace."

They're reels ahead of the flourishing theatrical mysterics of two decades ago, the clutching-hand and sliding panel chillers which survive mainly in Hollywood's quickies or in comedy versions: "The Bat." "The Cat and the Canary." "The Octopus," et al.

REGINALD DENHAM, co-author with Edward Percy of "Ladies in Retirement," and here on the screenplay for Lester Cowan's movie, suggests that a really good who-dun-it — with a good new twist—still goes, but the run-of-the-mill product has had its day.

Denham, from London where the play started before its New York hit, is an ex-singer, ex-actor, very active now in movie and stage direction and play-writing. Cowan in jest dubs him "the poor man's Orson Welles," and there's some basis for the comparison. He has co-authored half a dozen plays besides one on his own, has directed 22 English movies and some 80 plays.

DENHAM believes the English have an edge on the Americans in these murder melodramas —a belief borne out by the record.

"I don't mean to deprecate America," he says in the manner of one who certainly does not mean to deprecate America. "I believe it springs mainly from a difference in size of our two countries. America is a vast continent. England a small island. Americans have become so accustomed to sudden deaths—the highways, the gangster era—that only the unusual one makes the front page. If one person is murdered in a small island like England, the people are all interested and follow the case in detail in the papers.
